Woman May Win Illinois Republican Nomination For U. S. Senate

NEED A WOMAN IN SENATE, SAYS WILL, TO HELP US MEN

(Special To The News)
SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 7.—Tuesday Ruth Hanna goes to the post in Illinois, a woman by birth but a politician by training. I like her. She is not continually yapping about "the woman's angle."

Women are not doing so poor in this country. We want a woman that will help out men. We can't get a man in there to do it.

She will be the first elected female to sit in that "august body." Ruth won't feel at home in the senate. She is too young. There is 40 old ladies in there now, only different these don't knit.

Yours, WILL.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa Newc has seen lots of heavy snows, but none quite as copious as the fall which started early this morning. It was a virtual "cloud-burst" of snow flakes, which seemed to fall straight downward and land with a "plunk."

Speaking of queer license numbers, Pa. Newc observed one yesterday. It was EE13.

While Sunday was the thirteenth anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the world war, the anniversary was little noted in this community. A flag was flying here and there, but otherwise there was no notice of the occasion. Quite a contrast to the stirring scenes of thirteen years ago!

Week of April 14-20 has been designated throughout the state as annual spring clean-up week. In addition to cleaning up premises, all property owners and occupants are asked to take all precautions to guard against fire hazards and health menaces. Safety first is urged in guarding against possibility of fire throughout the year.

A snowfall of three and a half inches was recorded between 7 and 9 o'clock here this morning. Weather Observer B. J. Johnson states. This is unquestionably the heaviest fall of snow in such a short length of time, that has been noted here in many a day.

The toll bridge between Franklin and Oil City is even more deserted than the Deserted Village, since the new road was built. Only an occasional driver will turn off from the main road, in order to pay 15 cents to go over the bridge.

Besides sign boards, a person taking a ride in the country can see rolls of storm fences lined up along the road. Pa Newc saw 25 rolls all together, near Harrisville, Sunday.

The new bridge on this side of Slippery Rock is not ready for use, as yet. The bridge is completed, but the approaches are still being prepared for cementing.

In addition to the showers April brought Sunday, today she changed her mind and snow and slush are the order.

Mrs. McCormick Is Real Factor In Senate Race

Dramatic Primary Campaign To Come To Close In Illinois, Tuesday

DENEEN OPPONENT OF WOMAN CANDIDATE

Some Forecasts Indicate Mrs. McCormick May Win Nomination

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, April 7.—The most remarkable senatorial primary the country has ever witnessed drew to a close in Illinois today in a welter of excitement and dramatic tension.

For the first time in history, a woman—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick—is making a real bid for the senate. She has organization, money and brains back of her. Tomorrow the voters of Illinois will decide whether she or Senator Charles S. Deneen is to be the Republican nominee for the senate in November.

Woman May Win

The betting favors Mrs. McCormick—whatever that may be worth in a political contest. In Chicago's famed Loop District eight will get you five that the daughter of one Senator and the widow of another will be returned victor tomorrow over an incumbent senator whose record Mrs. McCormick has lashed and played from one end of the state to the other.

The betting odds are indicative of popular opinion in the Loop. But betting odds do not determine an election contest, particularly one which is as unusual, as unique as this Deneen-McCormick battle.

The impendence element, in the opinion of the Illinois sages, is the woman element. If this contest were between two men and the pre-primary indications the same as exist today, the betting fraternity would lay the eight to five without undue perturbation.

Dramatic Contest

Whichever way tomorrow's battle goes, it is certain that American politics will be changed.

Two Prisoners In California Killed Trying For Escape

Third Convict Badly Wounded As Guards Foil Attempt Of Three To Make Getaway

(International News Service)
FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., April 7.—Two convicts were dead here today and a third was dangerously wounded as the result of a desperate attempt of the trio to make a break for liberty.

The dead are: Harry Stewart, San Francisco robber, and Edward D. Baker, Orange county burglar.

W. H. Tinkler, also sentenced from Orange county for robbery, was shot in the abdomen.

The convicts started their dash for freedom while a baseball game was being played in the "upper yard." Before the men had gone more than 250 yards, and were still inside the prison walls, Stewart and Baker were killed by guards and Tinkler was lying on the ground badly wounded.

Detaching themselves from the rest of the baseball game spectators, the trio plunged down a tramway leading to the quarry. A burst of shots from the guns of guards brought Tinkler down while still in the quarry. Stewart and Baker ran down a spur track while guards felled them with a cross fire.

Hospital Dues Are Now Due

Jameson Memorial Hospital Aid Society Dues are now due. The officers of the society urge that all members of the organization aid in this worthy work by mailing a check for this year's annual dues to Mrs. Norman A. Martin of 136 Fairfield avenue, New Castle, at once. This act will be greatly appreciated.

Members who joined the aid society last year, pledged annual membership dues, and these are now due.

Six Killed In Pittsburgh By Machine Wrecks

Several Others Are Seriously And Painfully Injured In Series Of Crashes

WEEK-END TOLL IS VERY HEAVY

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 7.—Automobile accidents took a toll of six lives in the Pittsburgh vicinity over the week-end, while several other persons were seriously or painfully injured.

The dead were:
Mary Louise Keys, 22, of Uniontown.
Evelyn H. Smith, 79, city.
James Striley, 35, city.
James McDonald, 28, city.
George Constandaras, 40, of Canonsburg.
John Crendon, 32, city.

Returning home from Pittsburgh in company of a party of friends, Miss Keys, a teacher in Masontown, Fayette county, school, was fatally injured when their automobile struck a culvert beyond Wilkensburg, and overturned. Miss Keys was pronounced dead from a fractured skull at Columbia hospital. Glenn Davis of Uniontown, driver; John Miller of Latrobe and Jane Murray of Delmont, the other occupants were painfully injured when also pinned beneath the car. They were expected to recover.

Drivers Are Held

Mrs. Evelyn H. Smith died at the Homeopathic hospital from injuries suffered after she was struck by an auto allegedly driven by James J. Vey of Braddock. Vey was being held by police today.

George Constandaras was pronounced dead of a fractured skull, when the motorcycle sidecar in which he was riding was struck by a bus. George Drastidas of Canonsburg, driver of the motorcycle, was being held by police.

James McDonald and John Crendon were fatally injured when the auto in which they were passengers crashed into a pole. Both died a few hours later at Homeopathic hospital.

Richard Butler, 33, driver, was cut and bruised but not seriously hurt.

James Striley was killed after being struck by an auto allegedly driven by Earl Grey of this city. Grey, held pending a hearing, maintained Striley stepped from the curb in front of his automobile.

U. S. Delegation May Be Delayed In Return Home

By HARRY R. FLORY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 7.—In spite of the fact they have already booked passage aboard the Leviathan for that date, it appeared improbable today that the American delegation to the London Naval conference would be able to sail for home on April 22 as they had planned.

Departure of the American delegation on April 22 would necessitate winding up of the conference by a week from Thursday at the latest, in order not to interfere with the Easter holidays.

Even if they abandon hope of a five-power treaty, it seems unlikely that all the preliminaries necessary for formulation of a three-power pact could be completed by that time.

Heads of the various delegations held conference of minor importance today, but otherwise the parley marked time pending the return from Paris of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand. When he arrives back in London, the security pact negotiations will be continued.

Two Homes Guttled By Flames Today

(International News Service)
IRWIN, Pa., April 7.—The home of John Fehr of Fairmont was destroyed by fire today and a nearby residence, owned by him, was badly gutted by the spreading flames, while estimated losses were set at more than $10,000.

Fehr, with his family, was not home at the time the fire broke out from an unknown source. Firemen were handicapped in their battle with the flames by a lack of water and had to pump a supply from a swimming pool several hundred yards away.

Two Koppel Youths Held On Suspicion

KOPPEL, April 7.—Sam Aldrich and Nick Wilson of Koppel have been committed to the county jail at Beaver on suspicious person charge.

The young men had been employed in Rochester, N. Y., and left the city on the night a clothing store was burglarized. They have been in Koppel for the past ten days visiting and were traced here and questioned at the Koppel jail. They deny any knowledge of the robbery and so far their alibis have checked. They were to return to their work in Rochester, New York, today.

Arrest Made In Headless Murder, Body Identified

Bootleg-Brewery Syndicate Head Arrested As Alleged Killer

LAUNDRY MARK IS REAL CLUE

Believe William Gregory, 23, Killed Because He Double-Crossed Gang

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 7.—With the arrest of Philip De Fazio, 38, of Clairton, and the raiding of an alleged former wildcat brewery at Bloomfield police today were convinced they were nearing a solution of the "torture murder" which was disclosed last Tuesday when the headless body of a murder victim was found at Woods Run.

The body of the victim has been definitely identified as that of William Gregory, 23, reputed booze runner who is said to have double-crossed the bootleg, brewery syndicate alleged to have been headed by De Fazio.

Immediately after De Fazio was taken into custody, a detail of detectives raided the former brewery in Lorain street. Only a boiler remained of the distilling apparatus once housed in the brewery. Walls and floors of the one-story brick building had been liberally besprinkled with lime.

Underneath the lime, however, smears and stains were discernible. These bore a close resemblance to bloodstains according to George W. Murren, chief of county detectives, who headed the raid.

Meanwhile police were piecing together the threads of a fabric of crime which, when completed, will reveal an astounding picture of racketeering, killings and the swift punishment of those who dared to rebel against or attempt to double-cross the gang chiefs, police believe.

De Fazio's arrest climaxed a series of rapid-fire investigations on the part of detectives working on the case. He is being held incommunicado in an unnamed police station.

Double-Crossed Gang

Gregory's stepfather, Elmer Justice, charged De Fazio with having been the owner of a liquor truck which Gregory is said to have sold in Akron, Ohio. The youth is believed to have attempted to double-cross the gang chiefs, police believe.

The robbery of the Cutten home had its inception in a plot worked out by Joseph Vornitag, once a butler in the mansion. Vornitag, thinking the robbery might be easy, revealed it to others until nine in all were made members of the gang.

Using two automobiles the party drove to the Cutten home with the idea of kidnapping the grain broker and holding him for ransom. According to Vornitag's confession, they changed their plans and decided on the robbery.

Two servants managed to wriggle from their bonds after the bandits left and freed the Cutten from the vault before they smothered to death.

CLEVELAND, April 7.—Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus for Charles Davis, alleged by police to be Simon Rosenberg, ringleader of a gang of nine that robbed Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago grain magnate, eight years ago, was postponed today until 10:05 a. m. Wednesday.

Former New Castle Man Killed In Canton

Edward Ferrell Is Struck By An Express Train And Instantly Killed

Word has been received by relatives in this city of the accidental death of Edward Ferrell, aged 63, in Canton, Ohio. He was struck by an express train at one of the Canton crossings and was instantly killed.

Mr. Ferrell was born and raised in Pulaski township and was engaged in the plumbing business in that district until a few years ago when he removed to Canton.

He is survived by his wife, four sons, three daughters, four sisters, a niece and three nephews of this city.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the family home in Canton and interment was made in Canton.

Eighth Of Nine Bandits Believed Arrested After Eight Year's Effort

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 7.—Arthur W. Cutten, multi-millionaire wheat and stock trader, looked back today with satisfaction on his eight-year search for nine bandits who tried to suffocate him and his family in a $50,000 holdup in their Downers Grove mansion here.

Cutten's relentless search yesterday resulted in the arrest in Cleveland of a man believed to be Simon Rosenberg, whom police say is the eighth of the nine bandits to be captured. Cutten left for Cleveland last night to appear against Rosenberg today.

Only One at Large.

With tireless persistence and the expenditure of untold thousands of dollars that wheat magnate has brought about the capture and imprisonment of the bandit gang one by one. Only one now remains at large and Cutten says he is willing to spend additional thousands to bring about his capture and prosecution.

Yesterday's capture elated Cutten. He recalled the robbery in which the gunmen locked him and his wife and brother and five servants in a vault to suffocate. He revealed that he has had private detectives trailing Rosenberg across the continent for years.

"The money meant nothing," the magnate explained. "But when a man comes into my house and robs me and my family and then locks us in a vault where we might have suffocated—well, I'll get him if it takes every dollar I have at my disposal."

"That robbery was a fiendish piece of cruelty. I said then that I'd spend every dollar at my command to put them where they belong—behind the bars."

Trailed For Months.

Detectives employed by Cutten have followed Rosenberg from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic, from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada. Working as an insurance broker and a bond salesman, Rosenberg has moved from city to city. He realized he was being trailed and used many aliases, Cutten revealed. Rosenberg lately fled Detroit and sought refuge in Cleveland.

When they invaded the Cutten home the robbers took $30,000 worth of jewelry, $500 in cash and 25 cases of whiskey, then locked the financier in a basement vault to die a slow death.

The robbery of the Cutten home had its inception in a plot worked out by Joseph Vornitag, once a butler in the mansion. Vornitag, thinking the robbery might be easy, revealed it to others until nine in all were made members of the gang.

Fourteen Escape From Texas Jail

(International News Service)
HOUSTON, Texas, April 7.—Fourteen prisoners, including several sentenced to the state penitentiary on larceny charges escaped from the Harris county jail today after sawing through iron window bars and tying Jailor W. A. McClinton.

After binding McClinton, the prisoners escaped by way of a second story window, sliding to safety on a makeshift rope. A large posse of deputy sheriffs and city police immediately took up the search, but found none of the escaped prisoners.

Hacksaws smuggled into the jail by visitors were believed to have made the escape possible.

Three New Suits Filed In Courts In Steel Merger

Sheet And Tube Co. Stockholders Try To Prevent Meeting On Tuesday

HOLDING HEARING ON ONE PROCEEDING

C. W. Eaton, Cleveland Financier, Leading Battle Against Merger

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, April 7.—Three new suits seeking to restrain the consummation of the merger of Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, were filed here and at Youngstown today as hearing was begun in the United States District Court here on a plea that the court halt the consolidation proceedings with an injunction.

Two of the new suits were filed in the Mahoning county common pleas court in Youngstown by Arthur B. Taylor, Elyria banker and stockholder of Sheet and Tube, who already has one suit pending.

The third suit was filed in Federal District Court here by the International Shares Corporation, in the name of W. R. Burwell, president.

Precautionary Move

The filing of the additional suits was seen as a precautionary move to stop the merger in case the petition filed in Federal court here Saturday in the name of B. R. Shover of Pittsburgh, as a stockholder of (Continued On Page Two)

Injuries Prove Fatal To Youth

Wilbur Miller Dies As Result Of Accident On Saturday Night

DRIVER OF CAR IS HELD FOR PROBE

Wilbur Miller, son of Roy Miller, 902 McCleary avenue, who sustained a fracture of the skull Saturday morning, when struck by the automobile driven by Lawrence A. Blockinger of 223 Holmes street, Youngstown, O., at the foot of State Street Hill, died Saturday evening about 8:20 in the Jameson Memorial hospital, as a result of his injuries.

Lawrence Blockinger, the man who was driving the machine that caused the fatal injuries of the accident victim, is still being held pending the holding of an inquest this afternoon under the supervision of Coroner J. P. Caldwell. He was held by the police and coroner due to the fact that he was unable to provide $1,000 bail for his appearance at an inquest.

Wilbur Miller was born in this city February 4, 1915, the son of Roy and Bessie McGaffie Miller. Adding to the sadness of the unfortunate accident is the fact that two brothers of the accident victim were drowned last May in the Shenango river near Pulaski.

He is survived by his father, Roy Miller, three brothers, Earl, Leroy and Mandle, all at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGaffie of this city.

The body was removed this morning to the home of an uncle, J. L. Miller of 1026 Williams street, where it will remain until the funeral services are held.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday, April 8, 1930 at 2 p. m. in the Arlington Avenue Free Methodist church. Interment will be made in the Shenango U. P. church cemetery on the Wilmington Road.

Facing Charges Of Counterfeiting

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., April 7.—Clifford Halliday, 26, alias Mevin Arnold, of Scottsdale, today was returned to Greensburg from Steubenville, Ohio, to face trial on charges of counterfeiting, forgery, false pretense and larceny.

State police brought Halliday back from Steubenville where he recently attempted a jailbreak. He was arrested in the Ohio city last week on similar charges.

Local merchants and residents claim they were victimized by Halliday during the past six weeks.

You promised us sun and a warming breeze, you promised us these I know, and yet when I woke on this April day, you gave us a blanket of snow. Now we would not carp at your whimsical tricks, but candor compels me to say, that weather like this is not what we want, it's down, forty-one today. And the sunny skies are a bleary gray, and the snow fills a fellows coat, can you change the order for honestly, this stuff simply gets my goat.

Many Candidates Withdraw Names

Final Day For Withdrawing Nominating Papers Shows Many Dropping Out

GARVERICH ONLY MAJOR WITHDRAWAL

(International News Service) HARRISBURG, April 7.—John Garverich, Harrisburg, today was the only candidate for a state wide office to file notice of his withdrawal with the state bureau of elections. Garverich was a Republican candidate for secretary of internal affairs.

Garverich's withdrawal leaves the present incumbent, James F. Woodward and four others seeking the Republican nomination.

The bureau during the morning hours did not receive any formal notice from Lieutenant Governor Arthur H. James who announced last night in Wilkes-Barre that he would not oppose Judge George W. Maxey, Scranton, for the Republican nomination for justice of the supreme court. Withdrawals filed this morning included the following:

For Congress: William Ward, Jr., Republican, 8th district; James M. Magee, Republican, 35th, Allegheny county.

For State Senator: Abraham Wernick, Republican, 4th district; J. C. Lowry, Republican, 36th district; Robert Emmett Brown, Democratic, 26th district; Wilbur J. Hawkins, Republican, 46th district; and Michael T. Gorman, Republican, 40th district.

For the House: Harry A. Moul, 17th Philadelphia district; John Freeman, Republican and Democratic, 2nd Luzerne; Jerry J. Moriarty, Republican, 4th Allegheny; Edward C. Kroll, Republican, 6th Allegheny; Francis L. McAleer, Republican, 5th Philadelphia; Samuel L. Cheesman, Republican, Butler; Emmett Sipe, Republican, 2nd Fayette; Gilmore Roy Keitzner, Republican, 11th Allegheny; Robert M. Taylor, Republican, 11th Allegheny; Laurence W. Campbell, Republican, 2nd Cambria; James Hanley, Republican, 3rd Allegheny; Samuel P. Curry, Republican, 27th Philadelphia; Herman C. A. Hofacker, Republican, 12th Allegheny; Leonard P. Kane, Republican, 4th Allegheny; Joseph J. Milligan, Republican, 3rd Philadelphia; Elmer J. Griesinger, Democratic, Clinton county; Benjamin Treas, Republican, 22nd Philadelphia; and Harvey J. Gladfelter, Democratic, 2nd York.

Congressman Charles J. Esterly withdrew as the Republican candidate to succeed himself in the 14th district. Robert Grey Bushong, who was defeated for the nomination four years ago by Esterly remains in the present race.

The Sheet and Tube Company, should be refused.

The Shover petition asks the court to restrain stockholders of sheet and tube from meeting tomorrow in Youngstown to vote on the merger proposal and seek a blanket injunction to stop all other moves to effect the merger.

In view of the heavy onslaught against the merger through the courts, chances were extremely slim this morning for the Sheet and Tube tomorrow meeting at Youngstown to take a vote on the consolidation.

As Shover's suit came before the Federal court here today, Cyrus W. Eaton, Cleveland financier and bitter opponent of the merger, indicated that he is prepared to take the battle to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals if the District court refuses to halt the merger proceedings.

Claim Merger Defeated

In a statement issued today, opponents of the merger openly asserted that whether the stockholders meet tomorrow or not. The anti-mergerists claim to control 503,926 shares of stock to vote against the proposal.

Only 395,201 votes are necessary to defeat the consummation of the merger.

James A. Campbell, veteran chairman of the sheet and tube board, followed the anti-mergerist's statement with a plea to stockholders to disregard the "inaccurate reports of the opposition. He insisted he has faith that the merger will be approved.

It is learned that the boys' section promises to give both the directors' and young men's divisions a speedy case in their attempt to win all campaign honors.

Florida Man Is Held For Murder

Officials Contend That William Carver Killed His Wife, Son And Negro

(International News Service) SEBRING, Fla., April 7.—William R. Carver, former Stroudsburg, Pa., realtor, under indictment for the murder of his wife, their 2-year-old son and a Negro servant, Ben Whitehead, will be arraigned for trial April 14, it was announced today.

Called into extraordinary session by the state's attorney Saturday the county grand jury returned three murder indictments against Carver, who is held in the county jail without bond. He was arrested the day before when a $10,000 double indemnity life insurance policy on Mrs. Carver, payable to him, was discovered.

Carver, steadfastly proclaiming his innocence, contends that he shot the Negro when he discovered the black had butchered his wife and son to death. A short while after the crime a coroner's jury returned a verdict that effect, and justified Carver killing the Negro. Later, however, the coroner's jury was reassembled and reported that the Negro was killed by Carver, and that Mrs. Carver and her little boy "came to their death at the hands of parties unknown."

C. & O. To Secure Hocking Valley

Interstate Commerce Commission Issues Order In Situation

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 7.—The Interstate Commerce commission today authorized the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad to acquire and operate The Hocking Valley Railroad.

At the same time the C. & O. was authorized to issue $24,748,875 of common capital stock, consisting of 147,488 shares for the purpose of acquiring the Hocking Valley, and to assume liability for certain bonds, notes and other indebtedness of the latter road.

Commission Eastman dissented. "It is stated that there is at present no intention to abolish the Hocking Valley as a corporate entity," Eastman said. "It will be a ghostly entity, for it is also stated that the C. & O. will acquire all the properties, assets, rights and franchises of the Hocking Valley of every character, whether real, personal or mixed."

"The status of a corporation without rights and franchises of any character and with itself as its only stockholders presents an interesting legal enigma."

ties has offered no more dramatic contest than this fight between Mrs. McCormick and a wily, skilled politician who has been 32 years in the limelight in Illinois.

There is a personal element in it that would make a first class drama. Six years ago Medill McCormick was finishing his first term in the senate, and Ruth Hanna McCormick's principal interest was in his career and in their children.

Charles S. Deneen, a two-time governor, decided he wanted to go to the senate. He engaged in a primary contest with McCormick and defeated him for the nomination. Within a year after the defeat, Senator McCormick died. Many of his friends said he died partly from broken heart, for the senate was his life.

J. Hamilton Lewis Opponent

Now, six years later, his widow, the daughter of one famous senator, Mark Hanna, and the widow of another, is called to defeat the man who defeated her husband. If there isn't drama in that then there isn't life.

Whoever wins the Republican contest will have to face the veteran J. Hamilton Lewis in November. Lewis has the Democratic senatorial nomination clinched.

The November fight will be along different lines, for Lewis has already served notice that he is going to the state on the prohibition issue. Lewis is wet, and both Deneen and Mrs. McCormick are dry.

SILVERING A TELESCOPE MIRROR

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

After the mirror has been properly "figured" the next thing is to give it a silvershing bath—the last step in getting it ready for mounting. Silvershing is a mirror to apply the silvershing solutions which, when set, forms a tough film or skin of silver nitrate over the paraboloid surface that is of brilliant reflecting power. For preparing the silvershing solutions, the reader is referred to Part 3 of "Amateur Telescope Making." Instructions are also there given for burnishing the mirror. When a telescope mirror has been ground, polished in to a paraboloid figure, and the silvershing has been completed, a mere piece of glass has been converted into a magic working wonder!

Ask Complaints Be Dismissed

Southern Railroads Combat Complaints About Coal Rates

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 7.—A group of Southern Railroads handling lake cargo—coal—Chesapeake & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville, Virginian and Norfolk & Western—today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to dismiss the complaint of Pennsylvania and Ohio bituminous operators charging existing rates of lake cargo coal unduly favor the southern mines.

"The complaints are insufficient in law because they affirmatively show that the complainants are not injured by reason of the rate relationship set forth in the complaints, for the reason that the rates alleged to be unduly preferential are higher than the rates from the districts in which complaints are located to the common markets wherein it is alleged they encounter competition," the railroads said.

Cascade Street Measure Passes

Thoroughfare Is To Be Widened To 50 Feet According To Ordinance

Councilmen met at the city hall today and adopted Councilman Louis Geringer's ordinance by which Cascade street, between Croton avenue and the Paper mill road is widened and lines fixed.

The thoroughfare is to be widened to the full extent of 50 feet and no building is to be erected in the future unless it conforms to the new lines fixed by the ordinance.

Any damages caused by the widening or which accrue from the taking of land between the new and old street line is to be paid when the same accrues, from the general improvement fund for the year in which the damages accrue.

Held In Jail For Local Authorities

J. W. Cameron Said To Be Wanted In Lawrence County Is Under Arrest

MERCER, April 7.—J. W. Cameron of Wolfcreek township was arrested at his home Friday by state police.

Cameron whose career of crime in this county is said by the police to be of several years longevity and including a number of arrests is being held in the county jail for the Lawrence county authorities who want him on a false pretense charge.

Cameron was tried for chicken stealing at the October term last and found guilty. He is asking a new trial on this charge. In November this warrant was issued. Since that time he has been in hiding. The police say that his favorite trick was to hide in the woods back of his home when they called. An officer stationed in the woods caught him easily.

Ellwood Citizens Ask For Division Of Fourth Ward Precinct

Residents of the fourth ward, Ellwood City, presented a position to court this morning setting forth that the fourth ward is too large for one voting precinct, and asking that it be divided into two precincts. W. Les Wilson, J. Roy Mercer and A. Clyde Shouff were appointed as viewers to go over the situation and make a recommendation to court.

Asked To Define Duties Assigned Postal Inspectors

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 7.—During the house post office committee's hearing today on a bill to increase the pay of postal inspectors, Rep. McCreary (D) New York, asked the committee to investigate the conduct of the inspectors in some sections and for the department to explain the scope of an inspector's authority.

He testified postal inspectors in Buffalo, N. Y., have complained about being mistreated by the inspectors. Rep. Kelly (R) Pennsylvania, remarked that he has also heard of similar complaints.

W. R. Spillman, chief postal inspector, today's witness, favored the salary increase. He asserted an investigation disclosed only one violation of authority by an inspector in Buffalo.

Robbery Attempted At St. Vitus Church

Officers Moore and Thomas were informed Sunday by the janitor of St. Vitus church of an attempt to force an entrance into St. Vitus church Saturday night, evidently for the purpose of robbery.

Screws were taken from the lock of a door of the church in an effort to remove the lock and get into the church, but it was unsuccessful and nothing is missing.

ACCUSING HEREDITY

LITTLE good is accomplished by the fierce scoldings for the transgressions of their offspring which it is the fashion, just now, to give the parent class. Much said about the break-down of parental discipline is unquestionably true. But if the young men and maidens of this day are to have the responsibility for what they do transferred to their fathers and mothers, why cannot the fathers and mothers say in turn that they are just their own fathers and mothers taught them to be, or let them be, and so start a sequence of irresponsibilities going back to Adam and Eve?

Possibly the loudly proclaimed grievances are to a considerable extent imaginary. Every now and then there sounds through the chorus of complaint about the younger generation a voice or two that suggests the possibility that youth is not a particularly new phenomenon—that it differs from the shocks its immediate predecessors on the world stage not a bit more, in essentials, than those predecessors did their predecessors.

Denunciations, such as the now fashionable ones against parents and their progeny, do no good whatever, unless it be that they relieve the minds of the denunciators. Even those who admit of a spark of truth in the complaints have an underlying, perhaps subconscious, realization that something is wrong with these accusations against a generation that is doing about as well as society can expect of it.

DISCREDITED POLITICS

Major post-war developments in Europe are seen by Owen D. Young as a conflict between two forces, which he personifies as Politics, the proud, showy, temperamental woman of the stage, and Economics, her humble kitchen maid, who did all the drudgery, helped her mistress out of difficult places and got none of the applause.

It was Politics, said Mr. Young, who wrote the Versailles treaty and fixed Germany's reparations bill at 132 billion marks. Politics put the French army in the Ruhr, and could not get it out; Politics initiated terrific currency inflation in Germany, and did not know how to stop it. Then Economics came forward and drafted the Dawes plan. The soldiers began to leave the Ruhr; inflation was stopped, and Germany began to recover.

Politics and Economics were again in conflict as soon as it became necessary to work out a permanent settlement to supplant the Dawes plan, which was a temporary arrangement. Politics and Economics were in conflict in the proposal to discharge the war debts.

Concerning present political tendencies in the United States that seek to place the rest of the world at an economic disadvantage, Mr. Young observed:

"Let no man think that the living standards of American can be permanently maintained at a measurably higher level than those of the other civilized countries. Either we shall lift theirs to ours, or they will drag ours down to theirs."

WORK VS. CHARITY

Opposition to the dole as a relief measure during the present unemployment has come from the unexpected source of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. His position he stated before the senate commerce committee in few words:

"Men should earn money, not have it doled out to them without labor in return. Charity can never be the solution of unemployment."

Neither is the labor chieftain a firm believer in the power of man-made laws over the economical laws. He admits that in times of unemployment the government can help through free employment service, maintenance of vocational schools and public construction, but sees the problem as much more complex than that.

Industry, he says, has the major responsibility in conserving labor and protecting it from periodic fluctuations. The only rational remedy for unemployment is more jobs, and they can be furnished only by private enterprise.

A weakness in the economic structure which can reduce the national income five per cent in three months is a situation no producer can afford to ignore. Every industrialist knows he has prospered when there has been full employment at high wages, and that he has lost money when there has been unemployment and reduction of wages.

Industry's job is to stabilize employment, eliminate waste and increase efficiency to the point where they will counteract low foreign wages, and set apart surpluses that will enable them to carry their employees over periods of temporary depression. Had factories been able to maintain their full payrolls with curtailed production when the present depression started it would have been shortened by months. Layoffs have aggravated the condition and delayed the return to prosperity.

AGE RESTRICTIONS IN EMPLOYMENT

The New Jersey legislature has passed a bill to prohibit discrimination in public employment against persons more than forty years old, except in such services affecting public safety as policemen, firemen and guards at penal institutions. Hope was presumably cherished of setting an example for private employment.

Certainly with the modern increase in the span of the average human life proportionately more persons are reaching and passing middle age than formerly. More jobs are required for them. The old theory of youth for action and elders for counsel now needs revision to take care of the surplus of counselors.

Men's virtues are not measured by the size of their tombstones.

Hoover claims success. Democrats deny it. Check and double-check.

The present state of Pennsylvania politics suggests a place for the next disarmament conference.

If you're disappointed with your radio set, read the manufacturer's ads again and see how wonderful it is.

And if a man buys better traps than his neighbor, the world of bill collectors makes a beaten path to his door.

Judging from the skirmishes between New York bluecoats and communities red and blue are unharmonious colors.

The final proof of good manners is to smile sweetly when some other motorist pulls a bonehead play that almost wrecks your heart.

Correct this sentence: "The reason we treated you so courteously," said the policeman, "was because you seemed poor and friendless."

Honest Senators swap votes, and perhaps there would have been no fuss if the old men had given Mr. Fall land instead of cash.

The New York Times has decided to spell "Negro" with a capital. This approval, though tardy, doubtless will make the dictionary very happy.

Two Little Texas Girls.
If Adam Could See This.
Chinese Worm Turns.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., April 7.—This is written in the office of the Santa Barbara Morning Press, owned and run by R. G. Fernald and leading its competitors in circulation, which has increased 60 per cent since G. A. Martin became managing editor, five years ago.

Santa Barbara, almost too beautiful to be real, is about half way on today's automobile journey from the Mojave Desert, back of the mountains on the highland, to San Simon, at the ocean's edge north, half way to San Francisco.

This is a land of long distances. Today's run of 300 miles is an average trip. Presently, when the new highway is built from Seattle, along the Pacific, through Washington, Oregon, California, Mexico and on down to Panama, you will be able to take a long ride out here.

About one thousand miles, in a straight line, on perfect roads, is all you can do at present.

Crossing the desert east of the mountains going north, to the pass leading to Ventura, you see many abandoned ranches, where men have learned that fighting the desert is hard always, and without abundant water, hopeless.

Roofs have fallen in, windows gone, fences down, sage brushes, grease wood and cactus creeping back over land once cleared. Lizards, jack rabbits, huge desert turtles and coyotes again taking possession. Each abandoned ranch tells of years of hard work, and hope at last abandoned.

The unemployment problem is visible, even on desert roads. Men seeking work, walk wearily, the young men carrying nothing. The older men, familiar with a hard life, carrying heavy bundles, often as big as the man, bedding, extra shoes, clothes, etc. Their lot is made harder by the wave of crime which makes automobile drivers afraid to carry their less fortunate fellow men. Stories on good-natured drivers, robbed, or shot and robbed as a result of "giving a lift" cause the majority to harden their hearts and drive on.

Among desert-traveling cars, passed on a fast drive is one of small, well-known make, almost as old as the 16-year-old girls in it. The license plates says Texas. Strong independent Texas girls have the drivers lift her thin left arm in friendly salute, as you pass.

They do not follow the mountain line north, but go straight on to the Cajon Pass, headed for Hollywood. They dream that they will soon be asking Navarro, Barrymore, Gilbert or some handsome entity "wherefore art thou Romeo?" But sad reality, they will be asking themselves, "wherefore didst thou leave Texas?"

For a while they will learn about life working in some hospital Los Angeles cafeteria. Then two Texas boys, very unlike Navarro, Barrymore or Gilbert, will come after them, and they will live happily ever after, with many little Texas babies, and a happier career than movies can offer.

They are quite safe, in their rattling car on the desert. Each has his little "gun," and each would bore holes in any over-enthusiastic person, with a nonchalance that would make Mr. Murad seem all excited.

You drive about 100 miles a cool wind blowing over snow-covered mountains on your left. Suddenly the mountains open, and a wide valley leads down to Ventura and the ocean.

In that valley are hedges of roses in bloom, thirty feet high, miles of walnut trees and orange groves, and far up on the hillsides, hundreds of oil wells, spouting out wealth, thousands of dollars a day, from individual wells.

The power that said—see Genesis—"let us make man in our own image," evidently decided in that same week of creation to prepare a surprise for man out here, and did Adam dream, looking ruefully back at the flaming sword before the garden gate, that his descendants would find here gardens so much fairer?

Speaking of biblical stories, what do you think of the Chinese forbidding the showing of Ben Hur, because "it is pure propaganda encouraging belief in baseless superstitions," the superstitions referred to, being the teachings of Christianity? Coming from believers in Shintoism, that seems a little hard. From a Confucian agnostic in all things, and intellectually dignified, you would resent it less violently.

Really, it hardly seems worth while to spend good missionary money saving souls with so little appreciation.

The Tu Quoque is never very effective, but consider some superstitions that our good missionaries have to combat. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, traveling with moving picture cameras around the world, bring this from the Far East.

In Polynesia the marriageable young women parade before priests of the devil-devil gods, the latter having been violently serenaded for a week in advance to get their attention.

Lightly clad, the young ladies are smeared with coconut oil, and as they pass a devil-devil priest scratches off a little oil from each girl's back. The oil is analyzed in the devil-devil god's sanctum, and the priest tells the young woman she may marry now, or must wait a year.

Among those heathen to question the accuracy of that backscratching method is as serious an offense as it is to doubt Jonah's trip, among good American fundamentalists.

Triumph Of German Liners Challenge To U. S. Shipping

New Record Made By Europa Inspires Admiration And Predictions Of International Rivalry In Transportation Speed

Americans feel that there is a challenge in the speed record set by the new German liner, Europa, which made the crossing of the Atlantic against storm handicaps in four days, 17 hours and several minutes. Full credit is given to the Germans who produced both the Bremen and the Europa, successive record breakers, but there are many predictions of international rivalry in which this country will have a part.

Describing the German experts as "wizards in building ships and Zeppelins," the SAVANNAH PRESS gives credit for the pioneering spirit that governed the style of construction. "The SALT LAKE DESERTER NEWS points to the enormous sums of money lavished" on the "Queen of the Sea," with the conclusion that "national pride induces big expenditures" to achieve "the honor of possessing the best," and the SCRANTON TIMES holds that the Europa "shows what has been done by Germany in the way of postwar industry." The CHARLOTTE NEWS feels that "the very fact that the Bremen's record was outdone at all is substantial evidence that the Germans have no notion of surrendering the speed laurels on the waves of the ocean."

"A sound performance in shipbuilding," says the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, "that cannot be explained in any way except that postwar Germany is setting the pace in the maritime world." The News also explains that the new mark "has been set by a 48,000-ton boat sliding over the waves instead of plowing through them."

principle of construction apparently triumphant"; that "heretofore shipping men have believed the most effective size for North Atlantic ships to be about 25,000 tons. The Germans have a right to their pride," agrees that paper.

The liner "now holds the transatlantic blue ribbon," states the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, "simply because her builders made use of the improvements introduced by naval engineers and architects. The powerful engines of the Europa, her cruiser stern, and that bulbous bow which presses the water down rather than thrusts it aside, are all adaptations from battle cruisers." Referring to America plans, that paper declares: "The United States is now responsible for most of the passenger traffic on the seas. It is high time that we made an effort to bring back the speed records once owned by the Yankee clippers."

"Yankee skill is directly challenged," in the opinion of the DALLAS JOURNAL, "and it is openly threatened that it will outdo the Germans by building a ship that can make the crossing in four days. The world would profit from ship-building competition of this sort. If the interest of the nations could be centered around the construction of merchant vessels and turned entirely away from fighting, the world would be bettered."

The feat is viewed by the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE as one which calls attention again "to the attack on this coveted trophy of the seagoing nations," and that paper remarks on the "newly won" between the Bremen and the Europa, the record in 1900 with 5 days, 7 hours and 38 minutes, and the Europa there is no great apparent difference, but every hour short from the standard through the years since has represented the fulfillment of national aspirations, when the Bremen on her maiden trip last July beat the Mauretania's time by more than eight hours the reduction was regarded as sensational. The recent developments are triumphs for the German shipbuilders and the world will accept them as such. There is, however, no disposition to permit them to remain in undisturbed possession of the laurels. The British are now building a ship designed especially to beat the Germans. The United States will soon construct two superliners to "rank with or surpass any ships afloat, building or designed."

It was a challenge from Germany," according to the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL, "that the proud Europa carried when she drove her nose through the mists of the harbor, but it was the kind of challenge that America likes. It was the challenge of skill from the other side of the Atlantic, saying, 'This is what we can do—match it if you can.'"

The ALBANY MORNING CALL justifies interest in "clipping the record by a few minutes every once in a while" with the statement that "the horse that is likely to break a record almost any day is the interesting horse on the track." The ASHEVILLE TIMES believes that "it should soon be possible to cross the Atlantic, in a sort of floating hotel, in four days."

"The Europa established a record in spite of unfavorable weather conditions," observes the DAYTON DAILY NEWS, adding that "with the tempestuous Atlantic giving her cooperation, it will not be surprising to see the Europa improve her own record." The ST. LOUIS GLOBE-DEMOCRAT refers to speed records at sea with the comment on notable performances in the past. "Speed on the ocean ordinarily increases at a slow rate. The race course on which the swift wonders of former years measured their progress was between Queenstown and New York, 2760 miles, and gains were often recorded in minutes rather than in hours. The Alaska was the first to reduce the time slightly below seven days, back in 1882, and the Majestic, in 1891, the first to reduce it some days below six days. The Lusitania brought it below five days, in 1908, which the Mauretania bettered by four hours in 1910. The recent records are measured from the vicinity of Cherbourg in the Channel of New York, 3163 miles, which the Leviathan made in 5 days, 6 hours, 21 minutes, or an average of 24.57 miles an hour, while the Bremen's average for the entire distance was 27.83 miles an hour and the Europa's a few seconds greater. Conditions on the return voyages to the east are more favorable and the low record even less."

As a post-graduate in 1883, Camp, paired with Slocum, represented Yale in doubles at Hartford, Conn., in the first Intercollegiate Lawn Tennis Tournament. Few Colleges have inscribed on their annals the record of a better all-round athlete and none have produced a more illustrious among athletes. Eligibility rules today prevent Camp's accomplishments in the number of playing years, unequalled and other restrictions make it increasingly difficult for the rare all-round men of his brilliant kind to represent their College in a greater diversity of games.

Practically every year, however, the Colleges produce some especially versatile athletes. There were several enrolled at New Haven last year. It is not to Yale this time that the honors go for the best all-round man. That distinction for 1929 belongs to

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

William Barry Wood Jr., of the Class of '32 at Harvard. He was a star for "Prep" school and his forward passes and masterful work as quarterback this year as a Sophomore at Cambridge made him the most brilliant performer in the crimson backfield.

Wood also plays baseball and hockey and was elected as a member of the Davis Cup Tennis Squad. In addition to these achievements he has earned the highest scholarship rating of any Harvard athlete.

To become a star possibly is the most consciously cherished wish of younger athletes, while to see their sons successful all-round athletes probably is the dearest wish of many a father. But in a crisis, both generations discover that what they really treasure highest is good sportsmanship.

It is not difficult to pick the stars every year. It is a trifle harder to distinguish those good all-round men who do not particularly surpass their fellows in any one game. But it is impossible to elect from the many those players, good, bad and indifferent who are the most deserving of the title best sportsman.

They may have sat on the sidelines. They may have played on second teams. Or they may have played on the field, through brilliant plays on the field. Possibly only a few or none of their teammates know by what sacrifices and hardships they have given more than any other, but, except in rare cases, only their fellows can know. Yet to these men belong the greatest honors. They are the unknown heroes of sport.

During 1929 some of them received the bluntest of hard fought games and never personally carried the ball over the line or received the plaudits of a cheering section. Others have given more than the benefit of the doubt to an opponent in a deciding point at tennis. Others have ridden a horse to victory against their own entry for a competitor in the horse show ring or between the flags.

More Enumerators Are Added To Take Care Of Census Work

Additional People Named For Local And Rural Districts, Brown States

Additional enumerators, who have successfully passed the required examination, have been added during the past few days to take care of vacancies which have developed as the work has gotten under way. Census Supervisor Orville Brown stated this morning.

Those who have been named since the original list was announced last week are:

Charles Ross, Ada Wetlich, Jennie C. Isabelle, Laure V. Parker, Hele J. Ziolkowski, Opal V. Nelson, Mrs. Gertrude Festerio, D. A. Palmer, Olive Boenish and Dell Davidson, New Castle; William J. Eakin, Opal V. Nelson, Blanche F. Snodgrass, George W. Patterson, W. D. Morrison and Byron E. Kale, rural.

Several enumerators have about completed the task of numbering the people in their particular district, and the results from these territories will probably be announced soon, Mr. Brown announced today.

One woman who is enumerating on Adams street has already counted over 500 people on that street and is not yet finished with her task.

Car In Collision On Koppel Road

KOPPEL, April 7.—William Law of Koppel, met with an accident Saturday night while on his way to Beaver Falls. While turning onto the highway, a machine running at the rate of about fifty miles an hour struck the front of the car and damaged it, none of the occupants were hurt.

The other car, driven by an Ohio driver, was not damaged. Mr. Law claims he did not see the car approaching, and the Ohio driver did not stop or slow down for the cross-roads.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach trouble.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists—15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

U. S. Entered World War Thirteen Years Ago

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Thirteen years ago Sunday the United States entered the greatest of the world's conflicts and today the anniversary of that momentous event passed practically unnoticed in the national capital where war was declared.

The decision of a debate-weary Congress to take up arms against the Imperial German government was reached a few hours before dawn on April 6, 1917, when the House voted 375 to 50 for a declaration of war. The Senate had responded to President Wilson's appeal to resist German acts of war at sea and at 11 p. m. April 4, adopted the resolution that subsequently brought more than 4,000,000 Americans to arms.

All History Now
As a contrast to the tension and excitement that spread rampantly in 1917 from beneath the Capitol dome over the country, to hopeful allies in Europe and on to the Hindenburg line, the capital, as at peace of the rest of the world, was at peace Sunday.

War time patriotism, army cantonments, U-boats attacks, the Lusitania, influenza, sugar and meatless days, dead doughboys in foreign fields, hopelessly wounded in veteran's hospitals, cooties, corn beef "waffles" the billions in war debts, victory, the blare of military bands at the homecoming, have been relegated to pages of history.

On Sunday thousands of persons in sleek automobiles came to the national capital from a score of states to view the beautiful Japanese cherry blossoms that around the foot of towering Washington monument and below which Lincoln memorial stands in Grecian grandeur. They roamed through the silent halls of Congress that echoed with resounding patriotic appeals 13 years ago, and glanced briefly at peace monument that stands at the base of Capitol hill.

Undeterred by the drenching spring rain that battered at the tender pink petals of the cherry trees the thousands of visitors viewed the colorful panorama of nature and forgot the war cries of little more than a decade ago.

Many Have Passed On
Many members of the Sixty-fifth Congress—the wartime body—who participated in the bitter contest over the entry into the conflict, have passed to memory. Senator Harding, who later died while President, and Champ Clark, the Missouri Democrat, who as speaker, banged the gavel throughout the historic session, in the House, have long since passed away.

Two bitter foes of the measure to declare war, Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin, and Representative Kitchen of North Carolina, the Democratic leader, who opposed President Wilson's personally delivered request for war, also have died.

The war and the subsequent heartening events that increased the burdens of the chief executive contributed to the death of the war-time President—Woodrow Wilson.

A dramatic epilogue to the tense congressional drama leading to the final action on the declaration of war came when Speaker Clark announced the result of the roll call on the resolution.

The first woman member of Congress, Representative Jeannette Rankin, a Republican of Missoula, Mont., who had resisted entry into the conflict, bowed in her seat in the House chamber and wept. Solemn and serious-eyed men, the representatives of the people, then turned to rest a few hours before taking up the work of drafting measures to win the war.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

NOT ALL ONE WAY

Figures from the agriculture department tell us that more than a million nine hundred thousand persons moved from farms to towns last year. But more than a million and a quarter moved from towns and cities out to the farms. So it's nothing to worry about. When the demand for farm products gets about so great, enough people begin tilling the soil to meet the demand. That's the way things are and we really can't worry ourselves into any other situation.

CREEDS AND PRACTICES

The late Chief Justice Taft was a Unitarian. That is to say, he was a member of the Unitarian church. Does that mean anything to you? It may or it may not, but there is one thing about Mr. Taft that ought to mean a great deal to us. His favorite verse in the Bible was this: "What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

That was creed enough for a great statesman. It is creed enough for the most powerful and the humblest.

BILLIONS IN AUTOS

If you do not think this is a rich country we live in there are several ways of proving it. A fire insurance company has figured out that the folks in the United States in the past ten years have thrown on the scrap heap more than 12 billion dollars worth of automobiles. That means more than 15 million cars which cost on the average $800 each. Inasmuch as motor manufacturers made some 26 million dollars worth of cars in the past 10 years, one can see that there are 14 billion dollars worth of them still going. Somebody must have some money.

WHERE THE WOMEN WORK

If American women think they have a hard time—and many of them do—they learn about marriage among the natives of Africa. Mrs. Akeley, in her "Jungle Portraits," says men are desirable as warriors, but the women "till the soil, carry the burdens, help build the huts, prepare and help cook the food, make the pottery, and bring a substantial price in the marriage market. Buying a wife on the installment plan is not an uncommon arrangement."

One wonders what happens when the bridegroom or bridegroom-to-be falls down on his installments when they are only half paid.

NOISE AND HARMONY

Experts say noises of the city have the same notes as music. They are just scrambled. Many of life's commonplace and unlovely circumstances have in them the possibility of harmony, if we knew how to handle them—if we can keep from scrambling them.

Greenville Chief Of Police Dead

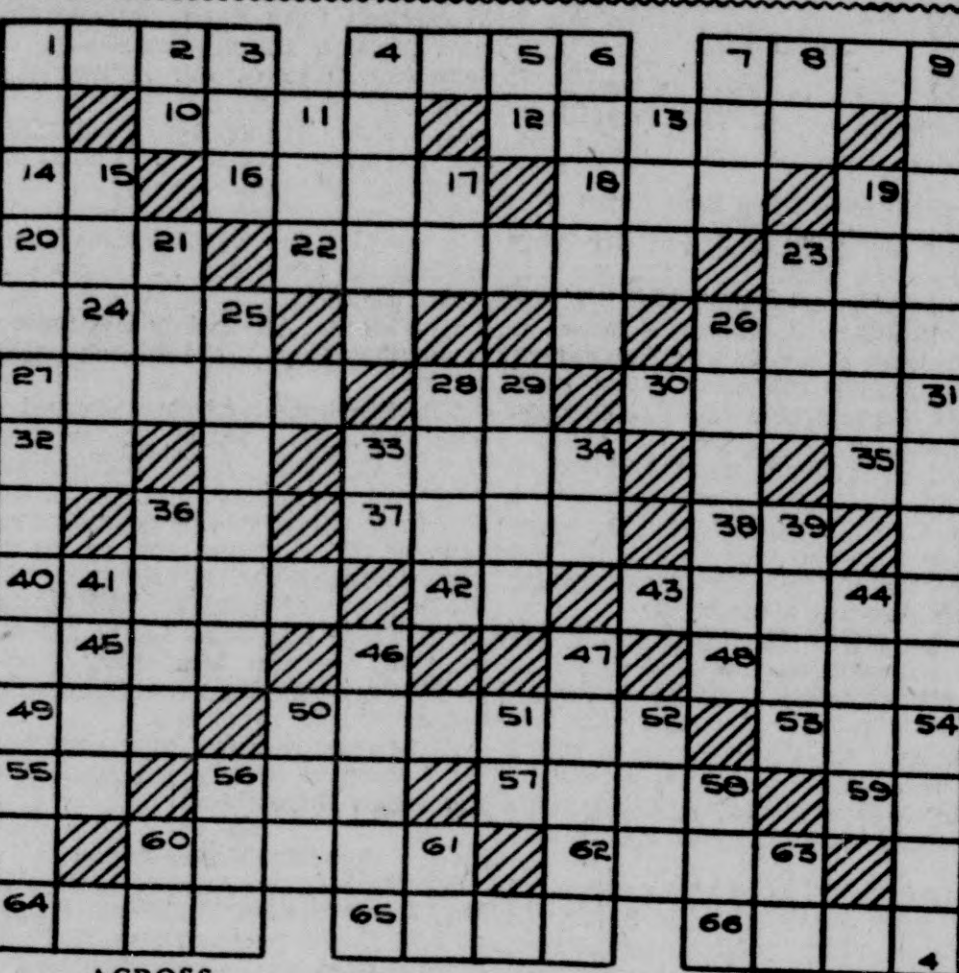

GREENVILLE, Pa., April 7.—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for John K. Penman, for 10 years a chief of police in Greenville, following his death yesterday in the Greenville hospital from a complication of diseases.

Mr. Penman's tenure of office was from 1907 to 1917, when he was elected by several succeeding borough administrations through his ability as a police officer. He had been a member of the force for many years prior to his elevation to the post of chief.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE VINCENT

A BRAND NEW FELLOW

Evidently the insect with a face like a pug dog's was not any too good-natured.

It's a great pity you could not have brought your friend to meet me at a more convenient time! snapped he. "Now I'm ready to cast my skin, Dragon-Fly, and I have no time to talk to you. However, you and your stranger can watch me if you like!"

"That is just what we came for!" declared Dragon-Fly, who was nothing if not frank. Peter was more polite.

"Thanks," said he. "I will be quiet as a mouse so as not to make you nervous."

"Huh! You couldn't do that if you wanted to!" remarked the queer fellow, with a pompous air. "Well, wish me luck, Cousin Dragon-Fly! When next you see my face I shall look just like you do! Here goes."

And "go" it certainly did. Suddenly the fellow began to sway back and forth on the stem top sticking above the water, then he placed one claw on a second stalk and like a child in a swing, swung between the two stems. Before long Peter heard a crackling sound and the pupa case, as Dragon-Fly had called the queer fellow's coat, was split down the middle.

(Just what happened to Chinaman Caterpillar's coat, thought Peter remembering the circus.) Then, before Peter's astonished eyes, appeared an entirely different sort of insect than the one with the Pug-Dog's face that had just been there. And insect with wings! The new arrival began to twist and turn and squirm. And while his old suit of clothes remained tightly hooked to the stem top, out of them their owner worked himself free. Little by little out of this old suit appeared a head, legs, wings, and at last a long slender body. Then without warning, over toppled the fellow who no longer had a face like a Pug-Dog but now looked like Dragon-Fly, and hung limp down the side of the stem. But he was breathing, Peter made sure of that.

"The poor fellow's all tired out!" said Peter to himself. Peter was right. In a few minutes the insect moved, let go of his suit of old clothes, caught hold of the stem with his untired feet and clung to the stem top, shivering as if he were cold.

To Select Prison Site

Every city in Northwestern Pennsylvania with a population between 10,000 and 100,000 is a prospective site for the authorized new federal penitentiary, according to officials of the Department of Justice.

The territory in which the government expects to build the new prison lies within a circle with a 200-mile radius and Jamestown, N. Y., as its geographical center. Besides Western Pennsylvania, half of New York state and parts of Ohio, are included in the circle.

The government prefers to have the new penitentiary far enough from any big city to avoid danger of "grapevine" contacts with the underworld. It wants to obviate the possibility of a "tough section," composed of discharged prisoners, growing up in the nearby city.

A thousand convicts will be housed in the buildings, and the government, working on the theory that an acre is needed for the maintenance of each inmate, wants 1,000 acres of land for the site.

A million dollars a year would be expended for supplies. The warden would draw from $5,000 to $7,500, it is predicted.

Going Thru Happiest Days of Her Life

"Why shouldn't I smile," says Mrs. Nancy Yager of Robinwood Hall, Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y., "when I finally found that I can be free from the trouble I suffered from a sour stomach, by simply taking that marvelous pleasant new medicine called Acidine. It has cleared up the rash on my skin, and I have more pep than I need, now."

Not more than one person in a hundred has a stomach so perfect that it needs no help to digest the starchy food, and sweets, which make stomachs sour. It's these excessive acids which thin the blood, lower your energy and cause skin rash. The first signs of too much acid are sick stomach, indigestion, burning sensation in throat, gassy belching. Try Acidine just once and you will see why more than two million people depend on it. Get it at any drug store.

Aitken Tells Of Discovery Of "Planet X"

Editor's Note:—Dr. Robert G. Aitken, associate director of Lick observatory, Mount Hamilton, has successfully photographed the new planet discovered beyond the orbit of Neptune.

In the following article, written for International News Service, Dr. Aitken describes his observations of "Planet X", confirming the discovery made at Lowell observatory.

By DR. ROBERT G. AITKEN
Associate Director of Lick Observatory
LICK OBSERVATORY, Mount Hamilton, Cal., April 7.—The object discovered at the Lowell observatory and conveniently referred to at present as "Planet X" was photographed with the Crossley reflector of the Lick observatory by Messrs. F. J. Neubaum and W. F. Meyer on the nights of March 17, 18 and 19.

On each plate secured it shows as a tiny dot, closely resembling the dot made by the light from stars of corresponding apparent magnitude, but its image can be distinguished from the star images because the latter have the same relative positions on all of the plates, whereas "Planet X", being in motion, appears in slightly different positions on the plate taken on different nights.

"Planet X" is a very faint object and is moving slowly, but the amount and direction of motion can be seen by anyone who notes the configuration of nearby faint star images carefully.

The motion shown on the Crossley reflector photographs is in agreement with that observed at the Lowell observatory and in this sense our photographs fully confirm the discovery made there.

It must be stated clearly, however, that they do not "prove" that the object is a trans-Neptunian planet. On that question we can say no more.

than was said in the original telegram from the Lowell observatory. That telegram simply said that the observed motion consistently conformed to the predictions made by Professor Lowell for a trans-Neptunian planet. No more definite statement can be made until an orbit has been computed on the basis of the observations made since the object was first sighted on January 21, 1930. This must be done by the astronomers at the Lowell observatory or by some one to whom they will send the results of their measures.

Aviation Pupil At Butler Port Leaps 500 Feet To Safety

BUTLER, Pa., April 7.—James M. Shutt, aged 22, student of the Penn School of Aviation at the Pittsburgh-Butler airport became the first member of the Caterpillar club of the local port when he was forced to jump from his plane at an altitude of 500 feet yesterday afternoon and parachute to earth when controls of his plane went bad while flying about three miles north of the port. Shutt was on a training flight north of the airport when one of the controls of the plane failed to function. Attempts to bring the plane down safely failed and Shutt leaped at about 500 feet. His chute opened and he landed safely in an open field. The plane fell and was badly damaged. It was taken to the port where it will probably be repaired.

It was the first accident which has occurred at the local port in the year in which flying has been conducted.

Shutt was none the worse for his experience and was flying as usual today.

Fine New Church At Rochester Dedicated

ROCHESTER, Pa., April 7.—The First Methodist Episcopal church at Rochester, Pa., rebuilt after the disastrous fire of March 15, 1928, at a cost of $118,000, was rededicated yesterday.

Rev. W. S. Trosh, D. D., Pittsburgh, superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal churches in this district, made the dedicatory address. Many former pastors of the church and ministers of the town had part in the exercises. The program will continue throughout the week.

Rev. C. W. Oresk is pastor. The members of the building committee are: David L. Shanor, Walter G. Darling, J. Melvin Reader, George E. Poucher, Charles E. Coleman, Mrs. James M. Ambrose and Lester C. Mecklem.

Eighth grade examinations were taken by 650 rural school pupils in 250 schools in this county Friday, April 4th.

The papers are being graded by the teachers and the marks will be returned to the office of the county superintendent here.

Those who pass this test which is made out by superintendent will be eligible to take the high school entrance test on May 10th.

Woman Author Has Filed Suit Against Vallee For Million

Rudy Vallee, Popular Radio Singer Says He Doesn't Know Anything About It

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 7.—

Charging that Rudy Vallee, popular crooner of jazz songs "pirated" her song, "Vagabond Lover" and put it out under the title of "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," Roberta Hudson McKay, Saturday filed suit for $1,000,000 damages against Vallee.

The complaint recites that the plaintiff was the author, creator and owner of the words and music to a musical composition entitled "Vagabond Lover," also that the song has never been publicly offered for sale or in any way dedicated to the public with her permission.

Rudy at Sea
NEW YORK, April 7.—Rudy Vallee declared he knew "nothing whatever" about the suit for $1,000,000 damages reported filed in Los Angeles by Roberta Hudson McKay, who charges the radio crooner pirated her song "Vagabond Lover" in publishing his own popular hit, "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover."

Vallee said so far as he knew there was no basis for the suit.

(International News Service)
WATERLOO, Ia., April 7.—Home, reputedly, where the heart is.

But for a Black Hawk county farmer, the heart was nothing to do with it. The federal government has decided his home is where his head is.

Don D. Connan, census supervisor for the sixth district, revealed the government's decision Tuesday. The farmer, whose name Donnan declined to divulge, owns land lying partly in Black Hawk and partly in Benton counties. His house straddles the county line.

Even his bed is so placed that when he sleeps, his head is in Black Hawk, feet in Benton county, a puzzled census enumerator, trying to decide which county should receive credit for the farmer's residence, looked up his rule book. The book told him heads should be counted in their usual place of abode.

So the farmer went down as a Black Hawk county resident. Reporting his decision to Donnan, the enumerator was told to return and inform the farmer to continue sleeping with his head in Black Hawk county and not discredit the census report.

13 Is Lucky Number For Texas Oil Field

(International News Service)
VAN, Texas, April 7.—Fifteen was anything but unlucky for the Van oil field, as the field's thirteenth well spudded in proved the biggest flusher to date. Estimates were that it would flow between 10,000 and 40,000 barrels a day.

Van is the mushroom city which sprung up overnight from a store and a few trees to a thriving Texas city numbering thousands of residents, and including practically all modern conveniences.

In less than a week after the first well was brought in, twelve farmers were made millionaires. Now the railroad commission has agreed that the city has sufficient business to warrant construction of a railroad.

Brick Hit Proves Fatal To Cousin

DOVER, April 7.—John Aul, 27, living north of Strasburg, died at Union hospital of skull injuries, received 10 days ago when struck with a brick during a fight with his cousin, Paul Aul, 26, near Strasburg. The victim's condition did not become alarming until last Tuesday.

Sheriff Harry S. Smith is conducting an investigation at the direction of Prosecuting Attorney J. F. Kuhns to prosecute the cousin in case the victim's family consents. Relatives are averse to prosecution. Paul lost his job as a result of the fight and can't get work.

House Noted For Big Still Found Burned Near Sharon

SHARON, Pa., April 7.—The famous stucco house in North Water avenue, Hickory township, owned by Mrs. Theodosia Stupensky, at one time famous as a liquor resort, is a pile of smoldering ashes today following a fire of undetermined origin which resulted in damage estimated at $16,000. Mrs. Stupensky, her husband, Sam, and two children escaped injury in the blaze.

The house gained a county-wide reputation in 1928, when the largest still ever located in this district was seized by Federal officers, as it was being installed in the building. The value of the equipment for the illegal manufacture of liquor was placed at $10,000. Huge concrete vats were under construction when the officers raided the place, following the receipt of information that parts of the still had been purchased in Pittsburgh.

Child Dies From Arsenic Tablets

AMBRIDGE, April 7.—Thirty minutes after she had climbed on a chair to explore the contents of a medicine chest Dorothy, 20-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Torham, Lentz avenue, was dead on her back.

A maid in the home found the child in convulsions on the floor and several strychnine and arsenic tablets scattered over the floor. Dr. H. D. Mowry was called and pronounced the child dead. Coroner H. C. McCarter gave a certificate of accidental death.

Wins $1500 Verdict For Loss Of Teeth

EAST LIVERPOOL, April 7.—A jury in Columbiana County Common pleas Court returned Thursday a verdict of $1,500 for Arthur J. Green against Donald Powell, as a result of a fight in a game of "horseshoes." Green brought suit against Powell for $5,000 claiming he lost several teeth when Powell assaulted him after an argument.

Powell did not contest the suit.

First Department Store Opened In Great Britain

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, April 7.—Another great American tradition has been shattered. The department store, known the world over as the product of Yankee ingenuity, did not originate in America.

"William Whiteley earned the sobriquet of the 'Universal Provider' by establishing the first department store in London in 1863," according to Fayette H. Elwell, professor in the University of Wisconsin's School of Commerce and contributing editor of the World Book encyclopedia.

"The building generally pointed out to tourists on a highway near Duxbury, Massachusetts, as the first 'department store' in America was not, in the stricter sense, a department store at all," Prof. Elwell says he discovered in the course of research undertaken for the World Book. "It was a 'general store,' larger than the average type, but of the type still found at every crossroads. The founder of the store at Duxbury must, however, be given credit for coining the term, 'department store,' by which he proudly designated his emporium when he undertook to cater to the simple tastes of the Cabots and Lowells in 1860.

"Whiteley, however, rightly appropriated the title for his store, when he added department after department to his original plan, until he had one of the largest mercantile establishments in England.

"American shopkeepers were quick to appreciate his idea, copy it and improve on it. Notably at Chicago, pioneering merchant princes like Levi Leiter and Marshall Field brought the department system to its present complex efficiency. So that when, in 1900, Harry Gordon Selfridge, an American, opened a department store on a fashionable London thoroughfare, he was showing the Londoners something new as surely as if William Whiteley had never kept shop there.

"A Britisher originated the department store. But it took the Yankees to put it over. And the chain store, latest merchandising development, has been an American institution from the beginning."

Census Takers Find 4,348 Prisoners In San Quentin Jail

(International News Service)
SAN QUENTIN, Cal., April 7.—There were no slackers in this census count and no return calls were necessary.

Enumerators Saturday completed a canvass of the state prison and their tally of 4,348 checked and double checked with the prison records here. Of this number 120 are women. In addition 497 prisoners in road camps were counted.

New Castle, Delaware, Is Showing Progress

NEW CASTLE, Del., April 7. — A new $250,000 brick high and elementary school building is being erected on a sixteen-acre plot purchased from the Saulsbury estate and situated on the old Hermitage Farm in the northern section of the city of New Castle.

The building, which is of brick construction, when completed will contain twenty-five class rooms and executive offices.

Besides these there will be a large assembly hall and gymnasium annex, which will be constructed at the rear of the new building, the finances for which was provided by the trustees of New Castle Commons. The building is expected to be ready for occupancy by September 1. It is planned to construct a large athletic field adjoining the building and a cinder track will surround the field.

The local high and elementary schools have been housed in old brick structures erected during and antedating Revolutionary days. Recently the schools become so crowded that two portable frame buildings were erected on the old academy grounds, which provided for the grammar grades.

The present high school sessions are held in the Old Arsenal which was erected during the Colonial period.

This building will probably be turned into a community house for use as a reading room and social purposes.

The need of such a structure as now being erected has long been felt by the community, but delays have been experienced until the Legislature provided for the bonding of the city and the State board of education donated $180,000 toward financing the project. The city raised $35,000 and the trustees of the commons donated $25,000 toward the project.

The trustees of the commons was created by an act of the State Legislature to manage the large acreage left by William Penn and others for the advancement of education in days when the people were compelled to pay directly for what they now receive through popular taxation.

Since the new form of raising finances for educational purposes began the trustees have been using the moneys received from the farms for civic and industrial improvements.

planted plots, however, the stands are composed entirely of the one valuable species—northern white pine.

Periodical weeding of competing hardwood sprouts were made on one of the planted plots and resulted in more rapid diameter and height growth and a large percentage of trees in the dominant classes. Where such weeding is undertaken, the Northeastern Experiment Station recommends that the first one be of a broadcast nature (all hardwood sprouts cut back) and that subsequent weeding be confined to releasing individual pines.

Penn State Plans To Admit 1225 Freshmen

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., April 7. — One thousand men will be admitted in the freshman class at the Pennsylvania State College next fall, the registrar, William S. Hoffman, has estimated. Fifty additional men will be entered at Mont Alto for their first year's work in forestry.

An increase of five percent in the number of co-eds to be entered next year has been arranged, the registrar said, which will bring the number of freshmen girls to be admitted up to 175.

The total of 1225 in the incoming class will make it one of the largest classes ever admitted to the college. Registrar Hoffman pointed out, adding that even with such an enrollment the college is unable to accommodate nearly all high school graduates in the State who apply for admission. Incoming students are selected from those standing scholastically in the upper two-fifths of their class and through examinations. Granting of admissions starts July 1.

Waitress Is Left Sum Of $250,000

HELD AS ERIE GIRL'S SLAYERS

NORWICH, N. Y., April 7.—Charged with murder in connection with the death of his eleven-year-old daughter, Ralph H. Mumbulo, 24, and his wife, Edna, 37, were arrested here Sunday and held for extradition to Erie, Pa.

The clothing of the little girl, who burned to death in her bed at her Erie home March 22, was soaked with gasoline, police said.

The child inherited property valued at about $8,000 from her mother, Mumbulo's first wife, when she died seven years ago.

Health Epidemic Strikes New York

NEW YORK, April 7.—New York City is experiencing an epidemic of health.

Health Commissioner Shirley W. Wynne, announced today that the city's 200 hospitals and clinics, operated at an expense of $50,000,000 a year, are right now only between 60 and 70 per cent full.

The 12,000 nurses of greater New York worked on an average about eight months each last year, Dr. Wynne added and the 11,000 doctors who practice here are having more and more time to devote to the business of keeping their patients well instead of treating them for sickness.

Insistent Census Taker Saves Man From Gas

Finds Man Overcome As He Enters Home When Knock Is Unheeded

NEW YORK, April 7.—A census taker's thumpings on the door of a Bronx apartment house were credited for the fact that Sam Bianco is alive today.

As Norton Katzen determined to complete his census of a rooming house in the Bronx last night, he banged on Bianco's door and heard movements and moans from inside the room. As he threw open the door a flood of gas billowed out and he saw Bianco lying on the floor.

An inhalator from Harlem hospital revived Bianco, who said the gas flame under a water heater had gone out while he was bathing. He answered all the census taker's questions—with a willing grin.

Pine Will Replace Blighted Chestnut

Forest Station Reports On Experiments Made In Northeastern Woods

That planting of pine followed by systematic weeding will speed up the return to productivity of blight-killed chestnut lands is indicated by studies made by the Northeastern Forest Experiment Station of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Since 1924 the Northeastern Station has maintained three experimental plots on typical blight-killed chestnut lands in Massachusetts. Two of the plots are located in a plantation established when the dead chestnut was removed. The blight-killed chestnut trees have not been removed from the third plot, and natural replacement has resulted in a stand less than 50 per cent, of which now has any commercial value. Rivers And Harbors Bill Being Prepared

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 7.—Under the impetus of President Hoover's demand for development of inland waterways, the house rivers and harbors committee today began final preparations for presentation to congress of the most ambitious rivers and harbors bill since World war.
With earlier estimates discarded, it is probable the measure will call for the expenditure of more than $150,000,000 on new projects in every section of the nation.
The bill will, according to Rep. Dempsey (R) of New York, chairman for the first time pave the way to a unification of the great waterways system of the country.
Big Cities Linked.
With its completion Pittsburgh, Chicago, Minneapolis and Kansas City will be linked by water with the Gulf of Mexico through the Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio and Illinois river systems.
The Great Lakes will be linked more firmly to the Atlantic by development of the Erie and Oswego canals, connecting Lakes Erie and Ontario with New York harbor, while the Great Lakes will be deepened.
The committee may take steps toward the completion of the long-advocated intercoastal waterway along the Atlantic, embracing the New Jersey ship canal and waterways in the south.
A hard battle is being waged by Florida interests for the Lake Okechobee project, which would give south central Florida an across-state waterway connecting the gulf with the Atlantic.
Scores of smaller rivers and harbors improvements also are expected to be included in the bill.

Osage Lake Will Hide Key To Spanish Gold

Treasure Story From Missouri Tells Of Suspected Wealth In Caves
Jim French living at Shawnee Bend, an isolated Osage River community, reports to surveyors working in his neighborhood there has recently appeared at his home two strangers whom he believed to be of Indian blood, with maps and records of ancient trails thereabout. French, whose parents came to this country with the Osage Indians, and who has lived forty five years at Shawnee Bend, says these men have plans to uncover a buried treasure. He believes it is located in Williams Cave, known locally as the Treasure Cave, says a Bagnell.
French owns a high and slightly homesteaded, just above the water level of the newly outlined Osage Lake and he believes the fact that filling of this lake will cover many springs and ancient tree markings, which may be the key to Civil War and Spanish gold, which is generally believed to be hidden in caves and canyons in this strangely historical country. He has himself spent a great deal of time looking for the so-called buried treasures.
Some years ago French met two men who came to this community in a canoe, camped at the mouth of Glaze River, near what is now Osage Beach. The men worked mysteriously for weeks; finally French upon visiting their camp found one man dead and the other missing. He believed they had found a treasure, quarrel about the division of their spoils, one killed the other and made his getaway. The dead man was never identified, but buried in the community cemetery. French lays claim to ownership of a 36 calibre cap and ball pistol given him by Jesse James, the famous outlaw, who spent some time with his comrades hiding around Shawnee Bend.

Does the Bible have it. The phrase was picked up by a writer, George Herbert, about 1640 and was gleaned by him from a sixteenth century proverb of the French, who in turn got it still farther back from some Latin writer. The Latin, again, may have brought it down from Turkish or oriental sources, as these are rich in ancient proverbs.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Police Commissioner Whalen—The Man With the Gardenia—at a luncheon the other day squashed the eternal daylight out of one of the funniest stories that ever rolled round town.
It was the yarn about the visit of Queen Elizabeth of Belgium. In the Mayor's office, one of the official family, responding to a commonplace by Her Majesty, is reported to have remarked:
"Queen, you said a mouthful."
"It never happened," said Grover. "I was there and I know."

Brother Orving Chayken, the Tiffany of Hammond, Ind., after a visit to our Holy City, voices the belief that "The Brass Rail" near Roxy's Theatre is the best place to eat in N.Y.
"Where the proprietor got the monicker for his place, I don't know," he writes. "It's not a speakeasy, as I learned; but a worthwhile restaurant where you can get a boiled lobster or a plain sandwich fit for a king."
The genial talented and urbane proprietor of "The Brass Rail" is not one of those cash-register, steak impresarios. He is a man of feeling—a man of imagination—a man whose memory runs back, in pleasant courses, more than nine feet into the dim and distant past.
Casting about for a name for his new lobster Lodge, his thoughts reverted to a day, long gone, when a hungry man could straddle a high stool at an immaculate mahogany bar and content his soul with a slice of beef and a foaming flagon.

Pittsburgh Men Offer Protest

Pittsburgh Industrialists Propose New Rate Schedule
Proposed By Commission
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 7.—Pittsburgh industrialists were today drawing up evidence for a formal protest against the proposal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to effect a new rate schedule on manufactured iron and steel shipments in this territory by May 20.
The industrialists, who have been organized by the Chamber of Commerce, maintain that the new schedule will increase freight bills in this vicinity by more than $1,000,000 annually. They claim that Pittsburgh vicinity shippers are put to a disadvantage as compared to outside producers.
Final plans in the fight against the proposal were to be made at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce here Wednesday night. Donald O. Moore, manager of the Traffic Division of the Chamber made the announcement today as he sent out the calls for the meeting.
The protest will be filed with the Public Service Commission, he said, claiming the State Commission would have jurisdiction at the hearing in the matter as the rate scale primarily affected intrastate freight.

Junior High Students In Latin Tournament

Saturday morning, April 5, the senior high school was a scene of unusual activity. The spring tournament for Latin students in the junior high schools of the city was being held under the supervision of the senior high school Senatus Romanus. This event is a semi-annual affair and is open only to picked students in the various 9-A classes. The first one of the year is ordinarily held in December, but his year on account of activities in connection with the State Educational Convention, it was not held till January.

Twenty six boys and girls entered the contest, the list being about equally divided between representatives from the Benjamin Franklin and the George Washington junior high schools. The first honors, Maxima Laude, were won by Rex Rowland; second, Magna Cum Laude, by Ione Farver; third Cum Laude, by Rose Rice. The events of the tournament consisted of examinations in forms, syntax, and questions designed to show the student's comprehension of a long paragraph in Latin which had been adapted to the ability of beginners in the language. Rose Schnebly and Virginia Stone also had very fine papers and stood next after the winners.

The twenty-six students whose papers indicated that they have all made a successful start in mastering the intricacies of English by their understanding of its great ancestor, Latin, are as follows: Helen Boya, Joe Eberhart, Andrew Esposito, Ione Farver, Bertha Greenberg, Irene Husiak, Ruth Houk, Mary Catherine Jackson, David Jones, Maxine Kirkwood, Bertha Koch, John Komarc, Mildred Owens, Mary Peluso, Rose Rice, Rex Rowland, Ruth Schnebly, Esther Shiffner, Virginia Stone, John Teplica, Ellen Webb, Marion Wilkins, Kenneth Wilson, Ellen Wylie, Joe Zampella, Victor Zuchowski.

In charge of the tournament were the following members of Senatus Romanus: Tribuni Certaminis, Dorothy Young and Charles Kay; Adjutores Certaminis, Hazel Matthews and Margaret Wallace; Enumerators, Frank Baldwin, Angelina Castrucci, Laura Cowmeadow, Tom Hawkins, Margaretta Hess, Ruth Hildebrand, Frances Hyde, Agnes Montgomery, Anna Thomas.

Later in the spring at some appropriate assembly period the honor medals will be presented to the three honor students: gold filled for first; sterling silver for second; and golden bronze for third. The medals are of appropriate design, showing the globe of the world, a pen, a book, as symbols of a scholar's interests, together with a laurel spray signifying victory.

Meet "Jake And Lena"

Unusual Success Of Radio Couple Brings Riches In Fairy Tale Manner

By BONITA WITT
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, O., April 7.—Folks meet Gene and Glenn, Jake and Lena, that unusual quartet whose microphone antics make lazy people rise at seven o'clock in the morning to listen to their nonsense and whose phenomenal popularity is making radio history.

Gene and Glenn, you know (if you're "up on your radio" at all) are Gene Carroll and Glenn Rowell, and Jake and Lena are imaginary characters impersonated by Gene who have become so real to listeners that a large portion of the mail and presents received at the studio is addressed to them personally.

Their unprecedented success is the wonder of radioland today. It's rarely if ever that they don't get at least 2,000 letters every 24 hours and one day the station was swamped with 7,200.

Admirers send them everything from rolling pins to canaries.

Not Long Ago

Yet a more unsophisticated pair of stars or less high hat you never saw for Gene hasn't forgotten the days when he was a small time vaudeville performer and Glenn recalls that not so long ago he was plugging songs for a modest sum. They believe the secret of their success is the enjoyment which they themselves get out of their broad-casting. Gene, a natural clown, injects so much comedy into their act on the spur of the moment that Glenn doesn't find it at all hard to let his contagious laugh rumble forth.

When the studio began to be swamped with calls from states as far distant as Iowa inquiring about Gene and Glenn and people began to come in droves to watch the broad-casting a Cleveland vaudeville theater decided to sign the pair.

At last they signed for $2,000 a week and a percentage of all receipts over $27,500. They were forced to give five performances daily instead of the customary four to accommodate the crowds which stood in lines stretching blocks from the

with the latter's sister, Mrs. Blanche Black.

DANGERS IN DIETS TO END FAT A BETTER WAY

MANY more people would fight fat in the right way if they did not fear some harm. The slender figures, multiplied in late years, could be multiplied again.

But the danger lies in starvation or abnormal exercise. The right way is to combat the cause. It usually lies in an under-active gland. That scanty gland secretion lets too much food go to fat. Modern physicians, in treating obesity, feed the lacking substance.

That method is the basis of Marmola prescription tablets. They are prepared by a famous laboratory, to offer this right method at its best. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen in every circle. Almost everyone has friends who can show and tell the many good effects.

The Marmola prescription is not secret. Each box contains the formula, and all the good results are explained. The user who gains new youth and beauty, new health and vigor, knows exactly why.

If you suffer from excess fat, combat the cause. It is a blight to beauty and to health. Don't starve, but feed the system a substance that is lacking. Marmola tablets do that.

Consider how many have employed this method, and for 22 years. It must be right. Go learn what they have learned. Watch the results from a box or two of Marmola, and let those results decide. Start now. Don't delay appearing at your best.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

(Special To The News)
NEW BEDFORD, April 7.—Members of the adult Bible classes of the M. E. church met Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Stella Wilcox, 27 South Garland avenue, Youngstown, O. for their regular monthly business and social meeting. Mrs. R. M. Shields led the devotionals. The scripture was read by Mrs. J. R. Pearson. Prayer by Rev. G. E. Shaffer. Roll call was answered by repeating a verse of scripture. The evening hours were pleasantly spent by a variety of games. At a chosen time the hostess and her aides served a tempting lunch to the following members: Rev. and Mrs. G. E. Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Harry, Mr. and Mrs. E. Cover, Mrs. C. P. Johnson, Mrs. R. M. Shields, Mrs. Alice Gruver, Mrs. Ellis Harry, Martha Jean Boyd, Fay Wilcox, Margaret Cover, John Greggs, Kenneth Harry, Marlen Shaffer, Melvin Greggs and LeRoy Harry.

ENTERTAINS
Miss Ora Mae Harry entertained friends at her home Friday evening in a pleasing manner. Social conversation and music were the pastimes of the evening. At a selected hour the hostess served dainty refreshments to the following friends: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Brown of Youngstown, John Steele of Coatesville, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hutchison, Thelma Shields and Floyd Harry.

Another polite snub—now she knows the reason... "B. O."

SHE WAS a newcomer in the neighborhood—eager to make friends. But in spite of her cordial pleasant ways, she couldn't! A few polite calls at first—a few polite invitations. Then—dropped!

She was distressed—bewildered. It wasn't the first time this had happened. What could be the reason? Then one day she found out. "B.O."—body odor. . . Now she has many invitations—scores of friends. She knows the easy way to keep perspiration odorless.

Find Coal Man Was Not Slain

ASHTABULA, O., April 7.—Mystery surrounding the death of Claude G. Wileman, 59, Ashtabula coal merchant, whose body was found in the snow at the rear of a building at 6 Station street on February 6, was cleared up at a coroner's inquest conducted at the city hall by county and city authorities.

At the conclusion of the inquest Coroner C. C. Webster, who had reopened the case at the request of city and county officials, following the discovery of new evidence as to the manner in which Wileman met his death, declared he was convinced that the coal dealer was killed as the result of an accidental fall, and was not murdered. Webster returned a verdict accordingly.

Apathy Of Citizens Blamed For 'Racket' By Woman Judge

PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—An Ohio Portia attired in a black lace afternoon gown, rose in wrath in this city and summoned Philadelphia women "to repudiate private property rights in public office, which the revolution of 1776 failed to accomplish."

At the same time, this embattled woman, Judge Florence Allen of the Ohio supreme court, handed down a severe verdict against "our apathetic citizenry, who are responsible for racketeering and high-powered modern crime."

The only woman in the country to hold a judicial position of such distinguished rank was the principal speaker at the meeting which opened the drive for $35,000 of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters.

Miss Gertrude Ely, president of the league, who presided at the meeting in the Bellevue-Stratford, announced that the organization is raising the money to expand its work throughout the state. The drive will conclude April 25.

Racketeering Due to Apathy.

Judge Allen, who is a Democrat, devoted her speech to a slashing attack on "men who are always willing to pay, in some form of coin, to se-arbor, blooming crocuses and a section for vegetables.

Then there is his work shop. It is a room full of wood shavings, screw drivers, hammers, chisels, wrenches, knives and blocks of wood. It can easily be seen that this is the true paradise of this German genius. It is in this room that he spends hours making cabinets of inlaid wood, repairing antiques, and making additional improvements on the pipe-organ.

West Side P. T. A. Will Meet Tuesday

Interesting Program Prepared By The Pupils Of The School With Social Hour

The Parents-Teachers Association of the West Side school will meet in regular session Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. Chauncey Davis as the speaker, her subject will be "The Modern Parent."

The children of the school have spent a great deal of time preparing a program and there will be other interesting features.

There will be time after the program for a social period, during which light refreshments will be served.

Edenburg Man Is Genius In Mechanical Line; Has Built His Own Pipe Organ

Like Pygmalion, who made the statue that came to life, Alvin Bernhardt, of Edenburg, has constructed a pipe-organ that really can be credited with human intelligence.

Eight long years of labor, during which hundreds of little connections were made by hand, tubing placed to bring the best results, minute bolts put in small blocks of wood, were necessary for Mr. Bernhardt to complete this marvel of mechanical genius.

Over 300 pipes, ranging in height from a few inches to six feet, are used in the organ. Mr. Bernhardt secured most of these pipes from an old church organ which had been unused for years and finally taken apart. It was necessary to put a lot of work into fixing the pipes over, but to hear the excellent tones, it is hard to believe that the pipes were not built especially for this organ.

The instrument occupies the entire end of the living room. The mechanism is contained in four cabinets built by Mr. Bernhardt. It is run entirely, according to the builder, by compressed air.

But it is when the motor is turned on and the music starts, that the real thrill comes to the visitor at the Bernhardt home. It is awe-inspiring to hear the beat of the drum, the xylophone, the various stringed instruments, trombones, trumpets and flutes. The listener cannot help but be amazed that one man's brains and hands could construct such perfectly timed machinery. It would be considered as great ability even if made by one whose business is to make pipe-organs. That is not the business of this man. Neither was he ever taught the science of constructing such a thing. He was never taught how to make the little automatic actions, which are, by the way, some of the most important parts of the machine. These must be cut out of maple wood and made with regard to a thousandth of an inch.

Alvin Bernhardt came to this country from Germany, 32 years ago. It was fifteen years ago that he started work on the pipe-organ.

"It was about the time that phonographs were coming in. Everyone was buying the new fangled talking machine. I decided that, instead of getting a talking machine, I would make an organ," the German explained to the writer, when asked what it was that put the idea into his head.

He is original in everything—a natural genius. His home, furniture, garden—everything reflect of the remarkable workmanship of this man. He lives alone—except for a sleek black cat which trails him around with adoring eyes.

He built an odd and pretty chimney at the side of his home, the roof of the home was also made by his own hands. Stenciled designs have been made on the window sills and the house is painted attractively, in bright colors.

The results of intensive gardening is shown on his property. There are various varieties of fruit trees, a grape

Dispute Over Price Of Dozen Eggs Ends In Fatal Shooting

New York Man Jailed On Murder Charge; Killed Brother Over Dispute About Eggs

(International News Service)

KINGSTOWN, N. Y., April 7.—Because his brother, Thomas Massey, disputed owing him 25 cents, the price of a dozen eggs, James Massey, of Milton, near here, is dead today and Thomas is a prisoner in the Ulster county jail charged with murder in the first degree.

James purchased three dozen eggs for family use, the brothers living together, but Thomas claimed the price of his dozen share was too high. In the dispute which followed Thomas shot his brother through the heart with a shot gun.

The dead man was married. His wife is said to be living in South Carolina.

Thin Folks Gain Weight and Health

Sickly, tired out folks must be benefited speedily says McKees, Eckerd's and Love & Megown or money back.

Since Scientists have discovered the fact that we must have a plentiful supply of Vitamins in our bodies in order to keep healthy and vigorous, millions of people have just learned that life is worth living.

The thin, weak, tired out, despondent, nervous person that is at all up-to-date takes Nature's own Vitamins instead of drugs—they have learned that lack of Vitamins in the body causes most of the ill health in the world.

Probably ninety per cent of the men and women in America would feel better—would be more vigorous and keener minded if they had more Vitamins in their body.

The quick and sure way to get these Vitamins into your body is to take McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets which are brimful of weight building and energy creating Vitamins—no drugs whatever.

Why not try them—Nature's own Vitamins can do you nothing but good. You can get them at McKees, Eckerd's and Love & Megown. 60 tablets, 60 cents. Take them as directed for 21 days and then if not joyfully satisfied, get your money back. Just ask for McCoy's at any drugstore in America.

To Employ Men Of Pennsylvania On Highway Work

HARRISBURG, April 7.—Request that contractors on state highway road construction projects employ to the greatest extent possible residents of Pennsylvania as a means of relieving unemployment was made today by Samuel Eckels, chief engineer of the State Highway Department.

Mr. Eckels in a circular letter to all contractors said:

"It is the earnest desire of Governor Fisher and Secretary of Highways Stuart that in the prosecution of these contracts you employ residents of the state of Pennsylvania in every capacity that it is possible for you to do so that if there should happen to be a period of depression in the labor market in this state that it may be relieved by reason of such employment."

"Your earnest co-operation is requested and expected of you."

Plans are under way between the Highway Department and the Department of Labor and Industry whereby contractors can be furnished with unskilled, semi-skilled and skilled labor through the Labor Department's employment offices over the state.

Paper Company Man Instantly Killed

(International News Service)

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., April 7.—Isaac Fisher, 46, of Flemington, was killed instantly today when his head was caught in the rotary wheels of the New York and Pennsylvania Paper company plant where he was employed.

Fisher's skull was crushed in the huge wheels.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

I have had no less than twenty requests to repeat the recipe for baking powder biscuits that was sent me by a woman in Omaha, who said that hers were like angel food. Many letters came praising the recipe, and others said they read and intended to clip it, but forgot to and would I please repeat it.

I'll do even better.

Today I got a letter from Chicago from a woman who says she tried the biscuits and found them exceedingly good, but that she still claims those she makes from her own recipe are the ONLY biscuits. There's only one way to make them, sez she. Here's the way:

"Into one quart of flour put four level teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, two level teaspoonfuls of baking soda, one teaspoonful of salt and sift twice.

"Work into this flour a piece of lard the size of an egg. Mix with sweet milk (not too soft), roll out, cut and bake in a quick oven ten to twelve minutes.

"With this recipe I won the first prize at the Coliseum in Chicago in 1926. The prize was a white enameled gas stove which I have enjoyed using ever since."

She says she reads and enjoys my column every morning. Now I hope that the men eat and enjoy her biscuits every morning. It's up to the wives. Don't like 'em EVERY morning? Well, maybe someone will send in a prize recipe for waffles?

Thanks, lady, and I'm sure the first one who will make your biscuits is the woman in Omaha who sent the recipe for what she thought were angel food biscuits. Yours is a fine reciprocity and we will start making biscuits today.

Incidentally if anybody is snowed in, in Chicago, and has prunes in the house, here's a good salad—if you get out to buy some lettuce.

Take the pits out of prohibition prunes—well stewed—and put peanut butter where the pit was. Arrange on lettuce and make a good egg dressing. (Swell-elegant salad!)

Some of these shoppers who have poured out their hearts to me over their difficulties with high-hatting saleswomen, and who have suffered from their repressions when they wanted to commit murder, will read this and see how perfectly awful it is when a buyer gives way to her feelings.

It's a wall from a saleswoman in New York where "R. E. W." sells silk stockings. She wants to announce to the somewhat cockeyed world that customers aren't all that might be desired: Her letter:

"I'd like to say a few words on the saleslady problem. For three years I have managed a ladies' hosiery shop. It's all very well to say that some saleswomen are unkind to customers, but how about vice versa? Don't some of these women think we are human? I was nearly killed by a customer who hit me over the head with an umbrella when I gently but firmly refused to exchange a worse pair of stockings. In that three years of refunds and exchanges have been great but I doubt if one customer could say I was ever discourteous although inwardly I was seething with terrible words just bursting to be uttered."

Of course she is right, and then again—

How many times my words have been "bursting to be uttered" when some super-salesperson told me that she would get someone to wait on me, and the one she got told me she would get me someone and that one told me she would try to find me someone, and after several had looked me over I was turned over to the tender mercies of a new clerk who had to go and find them all again to get the goods I wanted.

Of course you wouldn't hit anybody with an umbrella. That's savage and wrong and besides they can put you in jail for it, but Lord Lord! There are extenuating circumstances and if jurors ever were shoppers, I think there would be tender mercy. Some people haven't any more repression than some saleswomen have common sense.

With a sense of humor you can get fun out of a shopping tour. But in New York you can't shop successfully without one.

These Men Never Take Hats Off

There are men in the back country of Australia who haven't had their hats off for decades. They even sleep in them and while sitting around the fire on a cool night they never even think of removing them. Boundary riders coming in from the paddocks and wanting a wash before having a feed, usually proceed by tilting the hat back, bathing the cheeks and forehead, drying same with a towel, and then replacing the hat. On rare ceremonial occasions, when hats have to come off, the appearance of these denizens of the holdings is so strange and grotesque that often bushmates, who have long lived and worked together, hardly know each other. Pennsylvania Gets Increase In Road Funds

Federal-aid Apportionment Is Increased By Over Two Million Dollars

WILL RECEIVE FIVE MILLIONS

(By ARTHUR C. WIMER)
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The New Castle News
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 7.—An increase of $2,217,347 in the federal-aid fund apportionment for Pennsylvania highways is virtually assured by the passage of a bill by the Senate increasing federal-aid apportionments for the entire country from $75,000,000 to $125,000,000 annually. The bill has now passed both Houses and will be sent to President Hoover for approval.

As the federal-aid apportionment to Pennsylvania for the present fiscal year has been $3,325,854, the increase provided by the bill would set the allotment of the government to the State for the fiscal year of 1931 to 1933, inclusive, at $5,543,201 annually.

Compromise Measure

The measure represents a compromise between the Senate and the House with regard to a provision limiting the per mile expenditure of federal funds. At present the limitation is $15,000 per mile and under this new legislation the amount may be raised to $25,000 in States where seven per cent of the system has already been surfaced. Pennsylvania, however, is not yet one of the states eligible to receive this increase.

Apportionments of federal-aid funds are made two years in advance to enable State road-building agencies to shape their programs well before the time of starting work. Therefore,

French Cabinet Commends Briand

(International News Service)
PARIS, April 7.—The French cabinet today gave its stamp of approval to the activities of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand at the London Naval conference.

The cabinet, at a special meeting, commended M. Briand for "maintaining all points of France's attitude" at the parley.

The foreign minister declined to discuss reports of alleged security formulas reached between Britain and France save to characterize them as "Newspaper inventions."

Champion Alimony Payer Is Found

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Life to Spafford Wyckoff, 38, is just one alimony payment after another, it was disclosed here today.

He has been married four times. Each of his wives has blessed him with a son.

Wife number one gets $150 monthly, wife number two receives a $30 check each month, wife number three gets five dollars less a month. When wife number four received a divorce she was awarded $100 a month.

Wyckoff, who had his divorce from spouse number four set aside in order that he might sue in a similar action, told the court his income was $300 a month.

BANISHED ILLS AND GAVE HIM PLENTY OF PEP

Man Has Felt Fine Since Using Ten Herbs Some Time Ago

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 7.—The gigantic financial battle for control of the Fox theatre and motion picture enterprises ended today when William Fox announced a final peace move. The magnate relinquished control of his $300,000,000 movie business in the sale of his 151,000 shares of "B" stock to a syndicate headed by Harley L. Clarke, president of General Theatre and Public Utilities company head.

In a formal statement, Samuel Untermyer, attorney for Fox, said the conflicting banking interests, involved in refinancing the Fox companies, will participate jointly in a new refinancing plan that will feature a $50,000,000 issue of six and one-half debentures. The price received by the magnate from the Chicago syndicate was not revealed.

Fox, although selling control, will continue as chairman of an advisory board of the company for five years.

Ample Finances

Both Halsey, Stuart and Co., and the Bancamerica-Blair-Lehman-Dillon-Read Banking groups will aid the defuncting, it was announced, and both have approved the new organization plan.

W. R. Sheehan, vice president of the Fox companies, who backed the Halsey, Stuart refinancing plan, said Clarke was provided ample finances to cover an expansion program.

Untermyer said that all the debts of the Fox companies would be paid at once with interest. He said all pending litigation "will doubtless" be dismissed.

Fox's financial and legal troubles were revealed last October, shortly after he recovered from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. Two stockholders' suits, demanding an equity receivership were filed, and these started an amazing succession of legal actions, climaxed in recent weeks by several injunctions.

"I started taking Ten Herbs, and it actually did more than was claimed for it. My appetite improved, and my stomach was put in good condition. I no longer suffered from pains or gas after eating. Constipation was relieved, and my liver began to work as it should. The pains left my back and legs, and that tired feeling disappeared. I will continue to praise Ten Herbs whenever I have an opportunity."

Ten Herbs is sold at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, and by all leading druggists throughout this entire section.

Mayor Asks Three New Motorcycles For Police; Council Delays Action

When council met at City Hall today Mayor W. H. Gillespie said that he would like council to authorize the advertising for bids for three new motorcycles for the police department.

In reply to a query by Councilman Louis Gekinger the mayor said the two machines used at present are two years old, but he deemed it feasible to have a machine for each of three riders. One motorcycle is out of operation at present.

The mayor explained that the machine was burned out because oil was not put into it.

"Did they take care of them?" asked C. H. Reeves. "Is it possible to let this ride for a while?"

"It is possible to do almost anything," the mayor responded.

Councilman Burns suggested that a motion be made to purchase the machines and the city could ascertain what the dealer would give for the old machines. He suited his word with action and offered the motion.

"I do not object to asking for bids," said Reeves.

The mayor said the machine now operating will not go faster than 40 or 45 miles an hour.

Councilman Gekinger said there would be no use asking bids if the machines are not to be purchased.

"I'll have to vote 'no' on this question," Treser declared.

"It makes no difference to me. I am telling what we need," said Mayor Gillespie.

"I told you what I needed, too," replied Treser, recalling his request for a sweeper and grader or road machine, on which two negative votes had been registered.

Councilman Burns remarked that no one would object to getting replacement machinery, but termed the power equipment to be bought for the department of streets as "new things to us."

He said he had had experience with a sweeper and said it had been sufficient for him. "I'm willing to do anything, but I do not like to spend money when we are hampered for lack of funds," said Burns.

"We will not buy until we have the funds," replied Councilman Reeves, a former superintendent of streets and who voted favorably for the machinery requested several days ago by Treser.

Burns said: "I could buy an auto, but I would not know where I would line up the money."

"We make an appropriation and it should be carried through. The street department should have equipment," said Reeves.

"I am not opposed to getting things, but if motorcycles are not necessary we should not get them," Burns answered, adding: "I do not think we should spend $2,800 for a grader."

"We are living in the automobile age and the property owners and people demand a great deal. We are not living in a horse age," responded Reeves.

The motion to authorize bids for three motorcycles elicited no further remarks and council meeting was adjourned without action.

Lyon Will Lead Men's Division In Y. M. Drive

Directors, Business Men Form Section Teams Announced By Round Today

FIRST DRIVE DINNER ON TUESDAY NIGHT

Headed by their chairman, George E. Lyon, team captains and workers of the directors' divisions of the two-day membership effort of the local Y. M. C. A., which opens Tuesday night, will go into action immediately after the opening dinner's program to subscribe their quota of the 1,000 new members set up as a goal for the drive.

General Chairman L. B. Round today announced that everything is ready, and said that chairmen of both the young men's and boys' divisions have reported that their teams are anxiously awaiting the signal to begin. All sections will gather for the opening dinner Tuesday night and then begin their intensive campaigning as soon as final instructions have been given.

Teams of the directors' division were announced by Mr. Round today. Both the young men's and boys' sections campaigners were announced in previous issues.

Following is the directors' organization:

Chairman, George E. Lyon.

Team No. 1—Carl E. Paisley captain; R. J. Tully, J. C. Gillfillan, Paul Butz, Dan Woolcock, Sam Richards, Charles Gilliam, M. Markley, Russell Melvin and Roy Hughes.

A special meeting of the Salvation Army members of this city has been called for Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the new headquarters of the army at 34 West Washington street.

Thursday night, a delegation of local Salvation Army members and friends will go to Sharon, Pa., to take part in the special evangelistic services now in progress there.

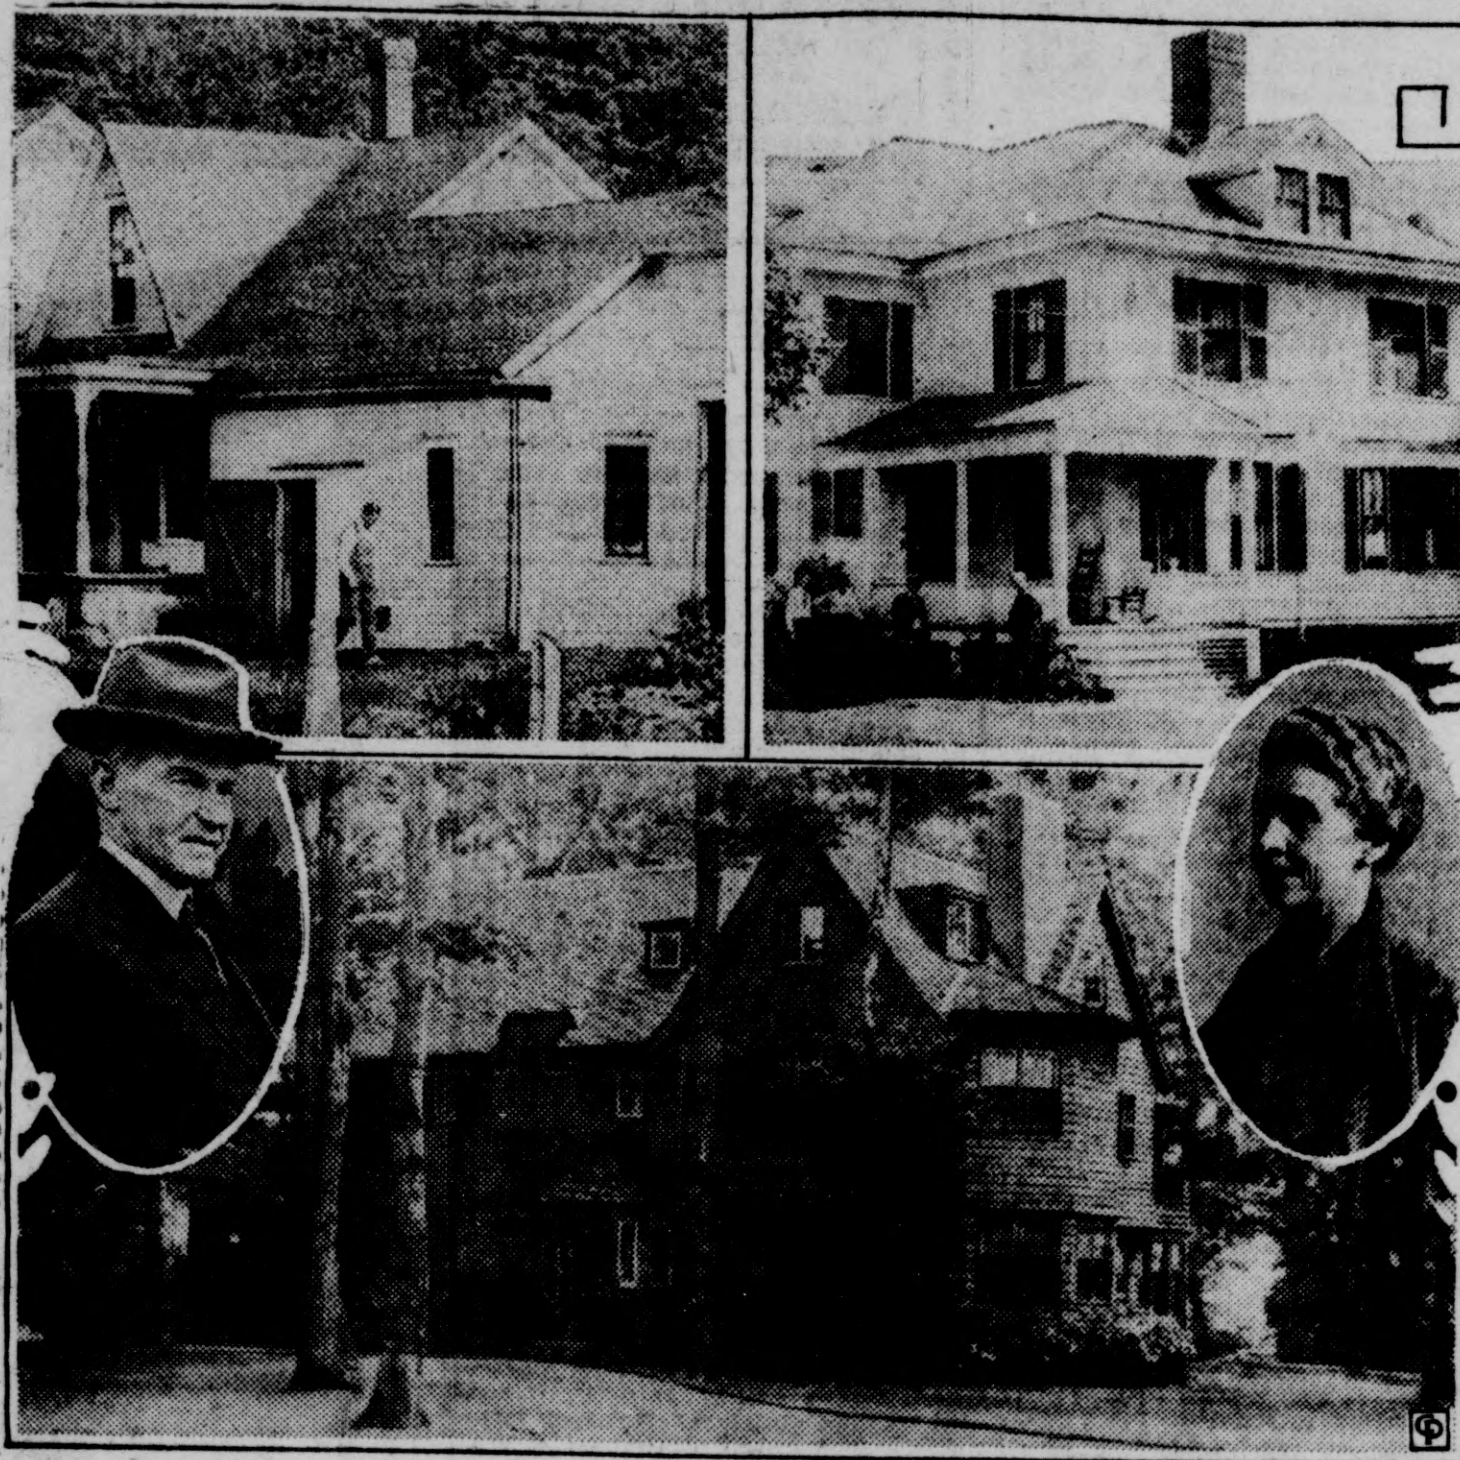

The Sunday evening services of the army proved most interesting and Mrs. Harry Hettenbaugh delivered a most interesting and helpful address to a large number of people in attendance at the service.

And Mann, 40, Negro, Admits Killing St. Paul Boy And Minneapolis Girl

(International News Service) MINNEAPOLIS, April 7.—Andy Mann, 40 year old Negro arrested at Dubuque, Iowa, and brought back to St. Paul after confessing that he killed Earl Tague, 16 year old St. Paul boy, today confessed that he was the murderer of Dorothy Aune, 12 year old Minneapolis girl who was attacked, strangled, tied up in a gunny sack and her body thrown into a gutter here last August 14.

Mann killed the St. Paul boy after torturing him and then left his nude body in a railroad ditch.

PICTURES TELL STORY OF CALVIN COOLIDGE'S RISE

These photos tell a graphic story of the rise of Calvin Coolidge, once a comparatively poor boy, who recently announced the purchase of a $40,000 estate in Northampton, Mass. Upper left, is his father's old home at Plymouth, Vt., Coolidge's birthplace, a modest country home; upper right, the double house in Northampton, in which the Coolidges lived while he was lieutenant governor of Massachusetts and to which they returned from the White House. Until a few years ago they were paying $32 a month for their half of the house and since that time the rent has been raised but little. Below is their new home, The Beeches, a 16-room house on an elevation at the edge of Northampton. Eight acres surround the house, which was built by Dr. Henry N. MacCracken, president of Vassar college, when he was a professor at Smith college. A swimming pool and tennis courts are on the grounds.

Apportion States To Receive Federal Aid In Highway Building

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, April 7.—Apportionment among the 48 states and Hawaii of $48,750,000 of the additional $50,000,000 authorized by congress as federal aid for highway construction during the next fiscal year was made today by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde.

This supplementary appropriation was authorized by the bill signed by President Hoover last Friday, which also authorized the appropriation of $125,000,000 for each of the fiscal years, 1932 and 1933.

The additional $50,000,000 brings the authorized appropriation for 1931 to $125,000,000 congress provided $75,000,000 by a previous act and Hyde apportioned that among the states on Dec. 2, 1929.

Second Arrest Made In Headless Murder Case At Pittsburgh

James Mallina, 22, Member Of Bootleg Gang Arrested In Connection With Killing

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, April 7.—Hopes for a speedy solution of Pittsburgh's "headless murder" rose high today as the police dragnet drew in suspects from various quarters.

James Mallina, 22, of Clairton, alleged racketeer, was arrested by police today. Mallina was declared to be a member of the run running gang with which the slain man, William Gregory, was associated at the time of his death.

Mallina's arrest followed that of Philip De Fazio, said by county detectives to be at the head of the extensive rum manufacturing and distributing organization. Both were being questioned for possible knowledge of events of the crime.

Among today's speakers were George Clegg, past president of the Youngstown Rotary club and now a member of the Ohio state committee on underprivileged children, and Ed. D. Kaulback, present president of the Youngstown club. Clegg spoke on the underprivileged children's work being carried on in his own state and congratulated the local Rotarians for their interest in it. Kaulback elaborated on Mr. Clegg's talk and urged that the work be continued.

Other local Rotarians also spoke.

MAN FAILS TO SEEK FORFEIT

Officers Moore and Thomas on Saturday night picked up Glenn Kelley, white, and Walter Smith, colored, in the rear of 1009 Moravia street, where there had been a considerable number of men and some disturbance. A pint of moonshine was found on Kelley. He was released for his appearance Sunday morning on a forfeit of $25.

While Smith was discharged, Kelley failed to return for a hearing and his money was forfeited.

Pittsburgh Boys In Accident Here Have Stolen Car

Two Pittsburgh youths, Regis Butler, 4634 Chance street, Hazelwood, Pa., and Thomas Deary, 4226 Bigelow and Bristol streets, Pittsburgh, arrested Sunday evening about seven o'clock by Officer Criswell, following an accident in which the car in which they were riding crashed into that of M. E. Hagan of Sebring, O., at Grant and Sampson street, were being held today for the Pittsburgh authorities.

It was found following their apprehension Sunday evening, that the car in which they were driving had been stolen Saturday night from Pittsburgh.

When the accident occurred there were five young men in the car, three of whom disappeared by the time Officer Criswell could reach the scene.

The young men being held stated that one of the missing young men was James Bowen of Forbes street, whom they claimed had picked them up in Pittsburgh and taken them for a ride to Youngstown. The other two young men had been picked up on the Youngstown road, they claim.

The accident occurred when the young men in the Sedan came out of Sampson street and crashed into the Hagan car which was enroute west on West Grant street, damaging the Hagan car to a considerable extent.

Automobile in which the young men were caught was found to be the property of Ernest A. Geary of 898 Kennebec street, Pittsburgh, who was notified and came and secured his machine. In the car were also found the drivers license and owners license card of Margaret and James Stefen of 5622 Herbert Way, Pittsburgh. The Pittsburgh officers are expected for the young men today some time.

Nearly Million Words Sent Out Over Wires On Recent Trials Here

Some idea of the reader interest in the trials of Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague may be gathered from the amount of press copy filed on the wires of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph Companies here during the progress of the trials.

From March 10th to the 31st, when Dague's verdict was brought in the Western Union and Postal Telegraph wires carried a total of 880,000 words.

Allowing 1000 words to an average column, this would mean 880 columns of solid eight point reading matter, or to reduce it to page size, this would mean 110 pages of solid eight point reading matter. One may get an idea of how much this would be by remembering that it would be the equal nearly three copies of the Friday edition of the New Castle News, which is usually 40 pages in size.

Another idea of the huge amount of words filed may be gathered when it is remembered that a book now in circulation is 60,000 words in length. The number of words filed during the two trials here would make approximately 15 novels of standard size. In addition to this mass of words there were thousands of words sent over the telephone.

Two thousand words per hour is a fast rate for an operator to send such copy. At this rate it would have taken one operator 440 hours to send out the press copy.

Not alone did the trials occupy the front pages of American newspapers but the foreign cables carried the stories. Rome, Italy, papers featured them. England, France and Germany carried accounts of them, and Swedish papers carried for more complete accounts than were being carried.

One representative of an international news bureau who covered the trial here stated that a survey of their company showed that the reader interest in the Schroeder-Dague cases was 75 per cent greater than that of the Snook trial at Columbus, O.

State To Improve Highway To Park

New Road Will Make Harrison Preserve More Accessible To Tourists

Leads To Thousand-Acre Tract Donated To State By Philanthropist

WELLSBORO, Pa., April 7.—Some years since, Leonard Harrison, lumberman, philanthropist and conservationist, now deceased, gave to the State Department of Forests and Waters, a 1000-acre tract near Four Mile Run. It included a fine cottage in the gorge and the famous Harrison Lookout, from which one of the most inspiring views in all Northern Pennsylvania is to be had, which the State has named Harrison Park.

The view resembles the Grand Canyon on a smaller scale and tourists, painters, hunters and lovers of the open spaces make frequent pilgrimages there to drink in the almost unparalleled view.

It is about nine miles southwest of this place, and the road part of the way is none too good, but is to be better. A part has been kept up by the State Forestry Department, but word has been received by authorities here and in Delmar and Shippen, which it traverses, that under the law authorizing the Highway Department to take over township roads leading from an improved road to a State Park, that the Highway Department has taken over this road for improvement and maintenance.

The idea is to make all the State Parks more accessible to tourists and this one particular spot is one of the most beautiful in this Switzerland of America, as the picture proves. Eventually, the road will be surfaced.

The view shows Pine Creek and the Pennsylvania Division of the New York Central threading the narrow defile of the gorge. No road but the railroad ever traversed it. Most of the timber of this section was floated down Pine Creek to the Williamsport boom, some years more than 100,000, 000 feet of logs annually.

People who talk loud get that way from living in a house with a radio.

Prayer In Congress

The chaplain, Rev. ZeBarney T. Phillips, D. D. offered the following prayer:

O Thou whose dwelling is the light of setting suns and the round ocean and the living air and the blue sky and in the mind of man, look upon us with Thy great compassion as we gather here; our presence is our prayer, our need the only plea we dare to make, Thy purposes the one assurance we possess. Speak to us not only in the silence but in each tumultuous thought, not only from the past but also in the present, for now is the accepted time in which to make some little way with plodding steps along the path of progress.

Bless everyone in this fair land, that we may be worthy of our freedom, persistent in reform, active in benevolence, and faithful to our trust. Satisfy us with Thy mercy from day to day, that in fullness of joy we may walk before Thee with a perfect heart. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

FLAMES TRAP MOTHER, SON

Mrs. Henry Klingelhofer, Freedom, Burned About Head And Face Fighting Way To Safety

FREEDOM, Pa., April 7.—When a fire of undetermined origin swept through their home Sunday, a woman and her son were trapped and their lives imperiled.

Mrs. Henry Klingelhofer, 65, of 131 Fifth avenue, was burned about the head and face as she fought her way through the flames to safety.

Paul Klingelhofer, 19, her son, was compelled to crawl out over the roof and drop to the ground to make his escape.

The fire broke out in the basement and had gained considerable headway before Mrs. Klingelhofer was aroused. She awakened her son and then fought her way down the stairway into the open. When Paul was aroused the fire had gained such headway he was trapped in his room. Firemen were summoned but the blaze had swept through the interior of the seven-room frame house, causing damage estimated at $4,000. Practically all the furnishings in the home were destroyed.

TWO AIRPLANE CRASHES KILL FIVE, HURT ONE

Thousands Look On As One Ship Spins Down An Is Burned

TILDEN, Neb., April 7.—Two young men were killed instantly and a third was critically injured near here late Sunday when their airplane went into a tail spin and burst into flames as it crashed to the ground from a height of 500 feet.

The fatal descent was made in view of several thousand persons attending dedication of a new state game reserve.

All three men were residents of Plainview, Neb. Kenneth Kirk, 26, pilot, was so severely injured that he is not expected to live. He suffered two broken legs.

HAYS, Kan., Apr. 7.—Three persons were killed late Sunday in an airplane crash at the airport here. The victims were Glen Marshall of Hays, the pilot, Orville Herbert, 20, and Melvin Ridgeway, 20, both of Ellis, Kan., passengers.

THE QUESTION BOX

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

"The pupils at our school have found that our books disagree as to the capital of Bolivia, South America. Can you tell us?" is a request from one of the younger followers of The Question Box.

The capital of the Republic of Bolivia, as far as the seat of government action is concerned, is La Paz. Sucre is still the legal capital of the country and many government buildings are located there. La Paz is the metropolis of Bolivia, with a population of more than 107,000 inhabitants, and is also the most important commercial center.

Which president of the United States had the largest number of children?

William Henry Harrison had six sons and four daughters and Rutherford Birchard Hayes had seven sons and one daughter.

Are the Choctaw Indians to receive a payment this year?

The chief of the finance division of the office of Indian affairs, United States department of interior, reports that he is unaware of any per capita payment to be made to the Choctaw Indians during the current fiscal year.

How many of our presidents are buried in Arlington cemetery?

One. William Howard Taft, whose body was buried there March 11, was the first.

How many normal schools and teachers' colleges are there in the United States and what is the total number of members of the staffs of these institutions?

In 1928, 339 such institutions reported they had 14,462 staff members instructing 297,430 students.

How does the male population of the United States compare with the female population?

According to the census of 1920 there were 53,900,431 males and 51,810,189 females.

By whom were carrier pigeons first used and why?

Many instances are recorded of the employment of pigeon messengers by ancient peoples. During the first half of the nineteenth century pigeons were used widely in Great Britain. The siege of Paris, during the Franco-German war of 1870-1871, first brought the carrier pigeon into prominent notice as a valuable means of communication in time of war. The leading continental powers immediately established elaborate systems and have maintained them since that time.

Robar, Rough Western Town, Is Gone Without A Single Trace

GLACIER PARK, Mont., April 7.—As completely as if an avenging hand were responsible, all trace of the once flourishing, tough western town of Robar has been wiped off the face of the earth. Not a shack, stick or timber remain to mark the location of this "hard-boiled" community which thrived in Montana 45 years ago—in truth it is one of Montana's ghost towns.

In its heyday, Robar existed on two occupations; selling "fire water" to Blackfeet and Cree Indians and gambling. Often 400 or 500 braves would stage a spree at the same time. When promiscuous shooting started, saloon keepers bolted their windows and "holed" in until the excitement subsided.

The town, located where the Glacier Park highway crosses Birch creek was headquarters for organized bands of cattle rustlers.

One day, in 1884, three Canadians drifted into town with a string of stolen mules in tow. News of the theft had preceded them. A group of Robar citizens—their reputations were blacker than the three rustlers—formed a vigilance committee and stormed the cabin in which the robber trio was barricaded. Unable to capture the stronghold, the pseudo vigilantes offered a fair trial if the mule thieves would surrender. The Canadians gladly gave themselves up and profusely thanked their captors for fair treatment until they discovered they had been tricked. A few minutes later all three were strung up on a cottonwood tree.

The vigilantes appropriated the stolen mules as their own. Later they were tried, but because of singular lack of evidence, they were acquitted.

George Eastman, Camera Magnate Will Give Away Half Million Cameras As Presents

(International News Service) ROCHESTER, N. Y., Apr. 7.—A half million children whose twelfth birthdays fall in 1930 are to receive for the asking the gift of a camera and a roll of film.

They will come from George Eastman, as chairman of the board of the Eastman Kodak Co., in celebration of the 50th anniversary of the first photographic patent awarded him.

The distribution of cameras will be nation wide. The twelve year old children may apply at their local photographic dealers if accompanied by a parent or guardian. Giving the cameras away will begin May 1, and continue until June 1 until 500,000 special cameras are exhausted. A further number are to be distributed in Canada.

The cameras are of the box type, finished in a golden tan in recognition of the golden anniversary. Each bears a gilt medallion, with the inscription "Fiftieth Anniversary of Kodak, 1880-1930."

Chicago Home Is Wrecked By Bomb

(International News Service) CHICAGO, April 7.—A dynamite bomb exploded today in the vestibule of the H. M. Stern home, damaging the residence and grounds to the extent of $3,000.

The blast wrecked the vestibule and the windows and plaster in the structure were splintered. Although members of the household were asleep at the time, none suffered major wounds.

Police could learn no motive for the explosion.

The meeting was opened with the color ceremony, with Bill Powell acting as bugler. The troop then held a business meeting. Five new members were voted into membership: John Travers, Dick Pugh, Russell Gustafson, Bud Perdue and Bill Warnock.

Because of the increase in membership, new patrol leaders were elected and the patrols re-organized. New patrol leaders are: Rattlesnake patrol, Raymond Atkinson; silver fox patrol, Bob Moore; lion patrol, Tom Strausbaugh.

The troop was honored by the presence of H. G. Horton, new scout executive. He gave a very interesting talk on activities for the coming year after which the meeting was closed by Scoutmaster Schmid.

The first aid team for the coming contest will meet on Tuesday evening April 8 at the home of Herbert Christmas. A team will be picked at this time to represent the troop.

Rum Smugglers Fight Each Other By Mistake

(International News Service)
EL PASO, Texas, April 7.—Citizens of El Paso and the border patrol got a good laugh out of a real gun battle, when liquor smugglers working half a mile north of El Paso-Juarez international bridge got their signals mixed one night and fought among themselves for an hour while border patrolmen watched the battle from a nearby vantage point. There were no fatalities for either side.

Officers had arrested a Mexican boy and Mexican woman, who had waded the Rio Grande with 50 gallons of liquor, when smuggler snipers stationed on the American side to protect the waders opened fire. Another band of snipers on the Mexican side, believing officers were firing on the boy and woman, answered the fire.

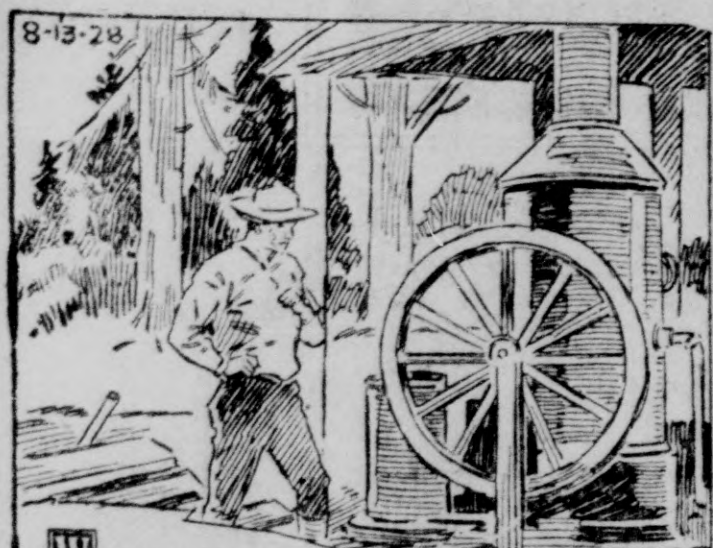

The battle which raged for about an hour could be heard in downtown El Paso. The allied snipers finally learned their fallacy and quelled themselves.

PENNIES BUY HOUSE

LONDON, April 7.—Mrs. Newman, wife of a Norfolk railway signalman, is a great saver of pennies. Recently her husband saw a house that he admired. "We'll buy it," remarked Mrs. Newman. When her husband asked what she'd save for money, she displayed her collection of pennies. She had more than enough to pay for the house—all accumulated in 17 years.

The Story Of American Industry
Beginning The Story Of Coal Mining

WITH THE INVENTION OF MACHINERY AND THE INTRODUCTION OF NEW MANUFACTURING METHODS, ONE INDUSTRY BECAME MORE THAN EVER DEPENDENT UPON ANOTHER. THE STEAM ENGINE, SUCCESSFUL THE OLD WATER WHEEL BECAUSE A MORE PRACTICAL MEANS OF PRODUCING POWER TO RUN THE MACHINES WAS NEEDED. IN TURN THE PRODUCTION OF STEAM POWER REQUIRES AN ADEQUATE SUPPLY OF COAL.

IN AMERICA IN THE MIDDLE OF THE 18TH CENTURY, BEFORE THE DEVELOPMENT OF MACHINERY AND THE STEAM ENGINE, THERE WAS LITTLE DEMAND FOR COAL. WOOD WAS PLENTYFUL, AND ONLY THE BLACKSMITHS USED COAL IN THEIR FORGES.

THE FIRST COAL MINE IN THIS COUNTRY WAS OPENED IN 1750 NEAR RICHMOND, VIRGINIA. THE COAL DUG FROM IT WAS BITUMINOUS OR "SOFT" COAL.

MOST OF THE COAL USED IN AMERICA IN COLONIAL TIMES WAS BROUGHT FROM ENGLAND BY TRADING SHIPS, AND FORMED ONLY A SMALL PART OF THEIR CARGOES.

Golf Committee Arrange Duties

Remodelling Work Will Result In Clubhouse For 'Mun' Golfers

COMMITTEE TO MAP OUT RULES

Howard B. Richards, Daniel B. Woolcock and Louis B. Round, recently named as a municipal golf committee conferred with Councilman Louis Genkinger, superintendent of city grounds at the city hall and mapped out their duties for the coming golf season. The first move was to name Phil Greer, secretary.

According to the committee the groundskeeper has worked all winter and he promised to have the course in a class condition for the opening date which has not been set. During the winter months he cleared away considerable brush.

The committee plans to meet once a week and notices of their meeting time will be posted at the clubhouse. Rules to govern the course will be formulated. They will include fees for the use of greens, lockers, showers and caddies.

Round reported the Clark Plumbing company has donated and will install a sink in the kitchen. The committee is willing to "accept bids from other plumbers to erect drinking fountains without cost" it is reported.

The fire places have also been donated, acknowledgment which is to be made in due time and the committee further stated that gifts of equipment will be made by enthusiastic supporters of the municipal course.

Work is under way on the kitchen and restaurant on the main floor and the building which is being remodeled downstairs is beginning to take on a real appearance as a clubhouse.

Councilman Treser informed the committee that the city power roller, when purchased and not in use in city streets will be sent to the fairways which will be better this season than they were during the inaugural season.

Judging from the interest displayed to the committee and reported to Genkinger the municipal course outlook for 1930 is decidedly rosy and the committee will strive to merit the support of the golfers.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Patsy Brannigan, former bantam and featherweight, visited friends here yesterday. Brannigan is the chap who discovered Jack Rodgers who now is a star in pugilism.

Rocky Stone, Boston, training partner of Jack Sharkey, it is reported intends to sue Sharkey for $500,000. He will charge Sharkey with "malicious assault" during training bouts and that he broke other agreements.

The Camera faction has found another chap who is willing to be hit on the chin for so much. He is a 200 pound negro, Neil Clisby, and the "fight" will be staged at Los Angeles, Tuesday night.

Clarence Crabbe, Honolulu and Walter Lauffer, Chicago split on individual honors in the national A. A. U. swimming meet at Chicago. The former won the 300 yard free style, 200 yard free style and 300 yard medley. Lauffer followed with victories in the 100 yard style and 150 yard back stroke.

According to reports Paris Cangey, who is working for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company will return to New Castle soon. At least this is what a letter to Bob Latera says.

John Doer and George Lott, Jr., national doubles champions, defeated John Van Ryn and Donald Cram in the doubles final in the New Orleans Invitational tennis tournament, 6-0, 6-2, 6-2.

RITICISMS

Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs, caught a ball which fell at least 800 feet. Might be one of those homers Babe Ruth hit in 1927.

Tom Heeney is back from Africa, where, after looking at a few herds of elephants in the raw, he refuses to be surprised even by Carnera.

Heeney didn't see the Prince of Wales, but a slight earthquake indicates Wales was in the vicinity somewhere, riding.

Eddie Collins used to eat pineapples to swell his batting average. The Chicago influence again.

According to a wire story Twain Mark is a Pacific coast welter. Sounds more like he's a typographical error.

It's been so cold in training camp that even Wilbert Robinson was reported shivery, and it takes a two-weeks' zero blizzard to chill the Brooklyn fat boy.

This is the time of the year when you pick up your paper to find that baseball news has been crowded off the sport page by pictures of football practice.

Phillies-Athletics Pull Smart Move By Getting Home Early

By DAVIS J. WALSH, International News Service Editor

NEW YORK, April 7.—With the $40,000 Mr. Hornsby having developed an ingrowing heel and the $80,000 Mr. Ruth being wheeled home through Texas behind a charley horse, I have suddenly arrived at the conclusion today that baseball training is pretty much like drinking mulligan.

The Athletics, for instance, have been back home in Philadelphia for some days, sleeping in beds that get their man without having to leave their feet to do it, eating food that doesn't bounce robustly from the bottom of the floor of the diner and absorbing some free samples of northern temperatures. The several items listed are not without significance but only the last named is really important. It means that the champions of the world, having been smart enough to come home a full week ahead of their field, are liable to be so much the better for it that they will still be about a week ahead in the final averages.

The benefit of a gradual climatic hardening in the north is inestimable to a ball club. Most of them spend weeks under a southern sun, earnestly soliciting muscular palsy in a temperature that won't be experienced again until the middle of May. Then they come north by way of the Panhandle circuit, open in Boston with the wind in off the bay and everything tightens up like a neck at its own hanging.

To my juvenile way of thinking, Mr. Cornelius Mack of Philadelphia, has pulled a fast one on the rest of the boys and, in so doing, has written a little common-sense insurance against the losing of the pennant. The Athletics will be ready for anything that fickle April can show them when the season opens a week from tomorrow. So, of course, will the Phillies who came back with the rival club to finish the spring series in Philadelphia.

Of course, every major league club will be in the north before the end of the week, thus getting a somewhat belated hardening to northern climes. One thing they won't get is the physical freshness that the Athletics, resting comfortably at home for a week, are bound to know.

The Yankees, for example, have been wandering around Texas with the White Sox for weeks and at last have decided upon a chance. They now are wandering around Indiana with the White Sox. The latter will be home in Chicago on Saturday but the Giants won't reach New York until twenty-four hours before the opening. That's drawing the decision pretty fine.

Even the Yankees, who have been approaching New York from St. Petersburg, Fla., by way of Texas, will get in days in advance of the Giants.

The Yanks will arrive four days before the opening but, at that, their 20-game exhibition schedule and their thousands of railroad miles compare very unfavorably with the seven games the Athletics played en route north from Fort Myers.

I don't pretend to say that Ruth's injury might have been avoided if the Yankees had hurried back to New York less slowly. It seems plausible, however, that changing conditions met from day to day in this sight-seeing expedition did the man's querulous legs no great good. First, he wallowed around the sandy diamonds of Florida; then he hit the hard clay of Texas and something had to give. It seems to be a matter of record that it was Mr. Ruth's leg that gave in the customary manner. It gave until it hurt.

Shot-Put Sensation

James Bausch, star shot putter of the University of Kansas, thrills mid-west track and field followers by breaking three shot-put records in three weeks. His best heave for the 16-pound missile is 51 feet.

Training Camps Briefs

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 7.—The New York Giants were here today to renew their pre-season series with the Chicago White Sox and celebrate Manager McGraw's 57th birthday. The way was paved for a happy celebration when the Giants defeated Memphis yesterday 7 to 3 with Carl Hubbell hurling in fine form.

DALLAS, Tex., April 7.—Taking Babe Ruth out of the lineup was the penalty the New York Yankees paid today for their 12 to 7 victory yesterday over the Dallas Steers. The great one limped off the field with an injured right leg after running too ardently on the bases. He may be out of the game until the regular season starts. The injury, centered in the calf of his leg, was not believed more than a strain.

MACON, Ga., April 7.—With two ball games scheduled today, the Robins will make up for practice lost in the several rain washed contests. In the first game will be against the Macon Peaches and the Robins joust the Atlanta club in the second.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., April 7.—After routing the Hollywood Stars 20 to 5, the Chicago Cubs today left for Chicago and another pennant race. The National league champions left a monument of 20 runs and 25 hits behind them as a remembrance of a batting attack which held the 8,000 spectators spell-bound.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 7.—Another exhibition series between the New York Giants and the revamped Chicago White Sox team was to begin today.

Manager Donie Bush of the Sox has made another change in the lineup in anticipation of the first game. One of the changes was the benching of Bill Hunnefeld, whose fielding, according to Bush, has been somewhat indifferent.

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 7.—Smoldering under the 5-0 whitewash smeared upon them by the Houston Buffaloes yesterday, the Pirates arrived here today for an exhibition game with the Fort Worth Panthers of the Texas league.

The Bucs broke even with the Buffaloes in the exhibition series.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 7.—The Boston Red Sox will attempt to make it three straight over the Indianapolis Indians today.

The Sox made it two straight when they defeated the Indians 8 to 6 here yesterday.

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 7.—The Cleveland Indians lost yesterday to the New Orleans Pelicans by a score of 8 to 7.

Mushball Meeting Scheduled Tonight

Mushball League Managers Will Meet Tonight At 7 O'clock For Discussion

Tonight at 7 o'clock the various managers of the Industrial Mushball league will meet at the New Castle News office for a short discussion. The special meeting was called by P-president Walter. It is urged that all managers try and get to this meeting or at least be represented.

It will be time to start mushball in a few weeks and for that reason the officials feel that the movement should be given a lot of shoving right now. Tonight the matter of supplies for the league will be talked over and also the introduction of three new teams since the final meeting. The Bell Telephone, Radiators and Oak A. C. have joined the league making fifteen teams. The sixteenth team will be welcomed.

Elect Tom Burke Grove City Leader

Tom Burke of Sharon has been named captain of the Grove City college basketball team. He will be a senior next year and has played three years of basketball for the Crimson.

Jackie Fields To Meet Tommy Freeman

Tommy Freeman, Erie, and Jackie Fields, junior welterweight champion, will meet in a 12-round bout at Cleveland Tuesday night. The title will not be at stake.

By Central Press
PITTSBURGH, Pa., April 5.—There is an old saying in the National league that the Giants are always contenders and that the Pirates are always in the first division.

It's true. The Giants are usually in the flag fight, but so are the Pirates. In the last 30 years the Pirates have finished in the first division 26 times! And it's a fairly safe bet that they'll finish in the left-side four this year again.

The Cubs look too strong to be displaced from the throne, but you are going to see a grand battle for runner-up between the New Yorks and the bold Buccaneers from the big Smoky City.

Jewel Ens has inherited a good team from Donie Bush, and the Pirates have shown in spring games that they are at least as good as they were in 1929.

L. Waner, Traynor Ailing
The Pirates look good in the outfield with two Waner boys, Paul and Lloyd, patrolling two of the posts, and Adam Comorosky or Fred Brickell doing duty at the third stand. However, Lloyd has been ailing and may not start the season.

Behind the bat the Pirates appear secure now that Charley Hargreaves has snapped into form and has been drawing a lot of praise in training camp. Hargreaves is doing the best work of his Pirate career.

In the infield the Pirates will probably depend on the highly advertised Gus Suir at first, George Grantham at the keystone post, Dick Bartell at short, and, of course, Pie Traynor at third.

However, Ens has his worries over Traynor. Pie has been suffering from an infected eye and there is the gloomy prediction the star will not be able to start the season. Stuart Clark has been substituting for Pie in exhibition games.

Hurling Problems
The Pirate pitching staff could be better—and younger. At least for the time being, however, Ens will have to depend largely on the talents of three aging veterans, Burleigh Grimes, if he decides to rejoin the Pirates; Ray Kremer and Jess Petty, the youngest of whom, Kremer, is 34, and such youngsters as Heinie Meine, Lil Stoner, Stevie Swetonic, Larry French and Ervin Brame.

If the veterans hold up their end and Stoner and several of the other promising younger men develop into capable flingers, the Pittsburgh Pirates' hurling staff is going to show much improvement over 1929.

If Traynor and Lloyd Waner are unable to play the early games because of their ailments the Pirates are going to be hard hit to put up a strong offensive. Traynor with 355 and Waner with 353 topped all other Pirates batsmen last season.

Other 300 hitters among the veterans are Paul Waner, 335; Comorosky, 321; Grantham, 306, and Dick Bartell, 302.

WINNERS IN WINTER GOLF PLAY

My ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer
CLEVELAND, O., April 5.—When Paul Runyan dropped his last putt for 291, to win the North and South Open at Pinehurst, there came to an end one of the most successful winter seasons of competitive golf. The season brought upsets, new champions and further honors to old champions who were being counted out, and left us with the favorites outside the major events.

The first of the moneyed games was dropped to a dark horse professional, Denny Shute, when he ran away from the best in the field to win the $10,000 Los Angeles Open. Here he led the greats by four strokes, finishing with 73-74-

75-74, for a total of 296. The only one to clear under 300. His play was handicapped by the rainy weather and the ever menacing Horton Smith who registered 300.

It took the Los Angeles Open to warm up Gene Sarazen to tournament spirit. He started the last round (Continued On Next Page)

Believe Gas-Flame Caused Explosion In Fireworks Plant

Gas-Flame Theory Will Be Brought Out At Coroner's Inquest Today

BELIEVE OFFICIAL WITHHOLDING FACTS

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, April 7.—The gas flame theory regarding the cause of the disastrous blasts at the Devon plant of the Pennsylvania Fireworks Display Company, Inc., as carried exclusively by International News Service last Friday will be submitted to the coroner's jury when it meets at Malvern again today.

Testimony, regarding the open-flame gas stove believed to have been burning at the time in the central building of the nine structures comprising the plant will be given by Sullivan Giannone, 24 year old joint owner of the Norristown Fireworks Co. and a former employee of the Devon firm, Coroner Herbert Ford announced.

Open Flame Stove
Giannone declared that an open-flame gas stove was kept burning summer and winter in the main building. It was used to heat the room and for warming glue he said. He worked at the plant being employed with several other employees at a long table in the room with the gas stove and left the plant because he was "afraid for his life," Giannone said.

The gas-flame theory of the blasts has been strengthened by similar stories told the authorities by other persons familiar with the plant. Police Chief Nugent, of Stratford, is said to have taken a statement from a Bryn Mawr fireman who declares that he once saw the flame and went to the basement of the office building and shut off the gas supply.

Believe Facts Withheld
Pieces of a gas stove and two open pet cocks will be introduced at the inquest today to prove that such a stove existed. Open pet cocks indicate it was burning officials say. Testimony given by Victor Vardaro, 23 year old son of Alexander Vardaro, manager and president of the firm, will be re-checked when the inquest re-opens according to Coroner Ford.

"There is no doubt," Ford said "that Young Vardaro is both lying and not telling all he knows."

POLICE SLAYING TRIAL APRIL 28

Man Captured In Akron "Fort" To Face Bar Of Justice

AKRON, O., April 7.—Bert Walker, 42, will be placed on trial for first degree murder here April 28 in the slaying of Policeman Harland F. Manes, 33, last month, the county prosecutor's office announced today.

Manes was shot down in front of 111 Kenmore Boulevard as he started to investigate an automobile accident. He lived but a few hours.

Assistant Prosecutor George R. Hargreaves is planning to leave soon for Jefferson City, Mo., to take depositions in the case, in connection with Walker's alleged former activities.

Walker was captured in a strongly fortified East Akron house. He was found to have been wounded by bullets in both arms a short time before his arrest.

(International News Service) BOSTON, April 7.—Without a defending champion for the first time in many years, 97 hopeful "Simon Pures" from all parts of this country and even Hawaii tonight begin the three-day series of gruelling battles that eventually will place crowns on eight mitt slingers as amateur champions of these United States.

Mose Butch of Pittsburgh, who was defeated in the finals of the 118 class, was again an entrant.

Detroit Tigers Fail To Impress

(International News Service) LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 7.—After giving an exhibition yesterday that made them look bush-league, the Detroit Tigers were today booked for their second and last game against the Louisville American Association club here this afternoon.

After the Tigers had lost yesterday by a score of 8 to 7, some of the local newspapermen, said they looked worse than the Boston Red Sox, who had just moved out.

Young Boy Suffers Fatal Injuries On Oil Well Fly Belt

(International News Service) BRADFORD, Pa., April 7.—Fatally injured when he was whirled to the ceiling at his father's oil lease plant by a power belt 5-year-old John Schuetrum of Dallas City was dead here today.

The child accompanied his father, Leonard J. Schuetrum, to the lease at Summit City yesterday. Schuetrum allowed the boy to play about the plant while he entered the power house.

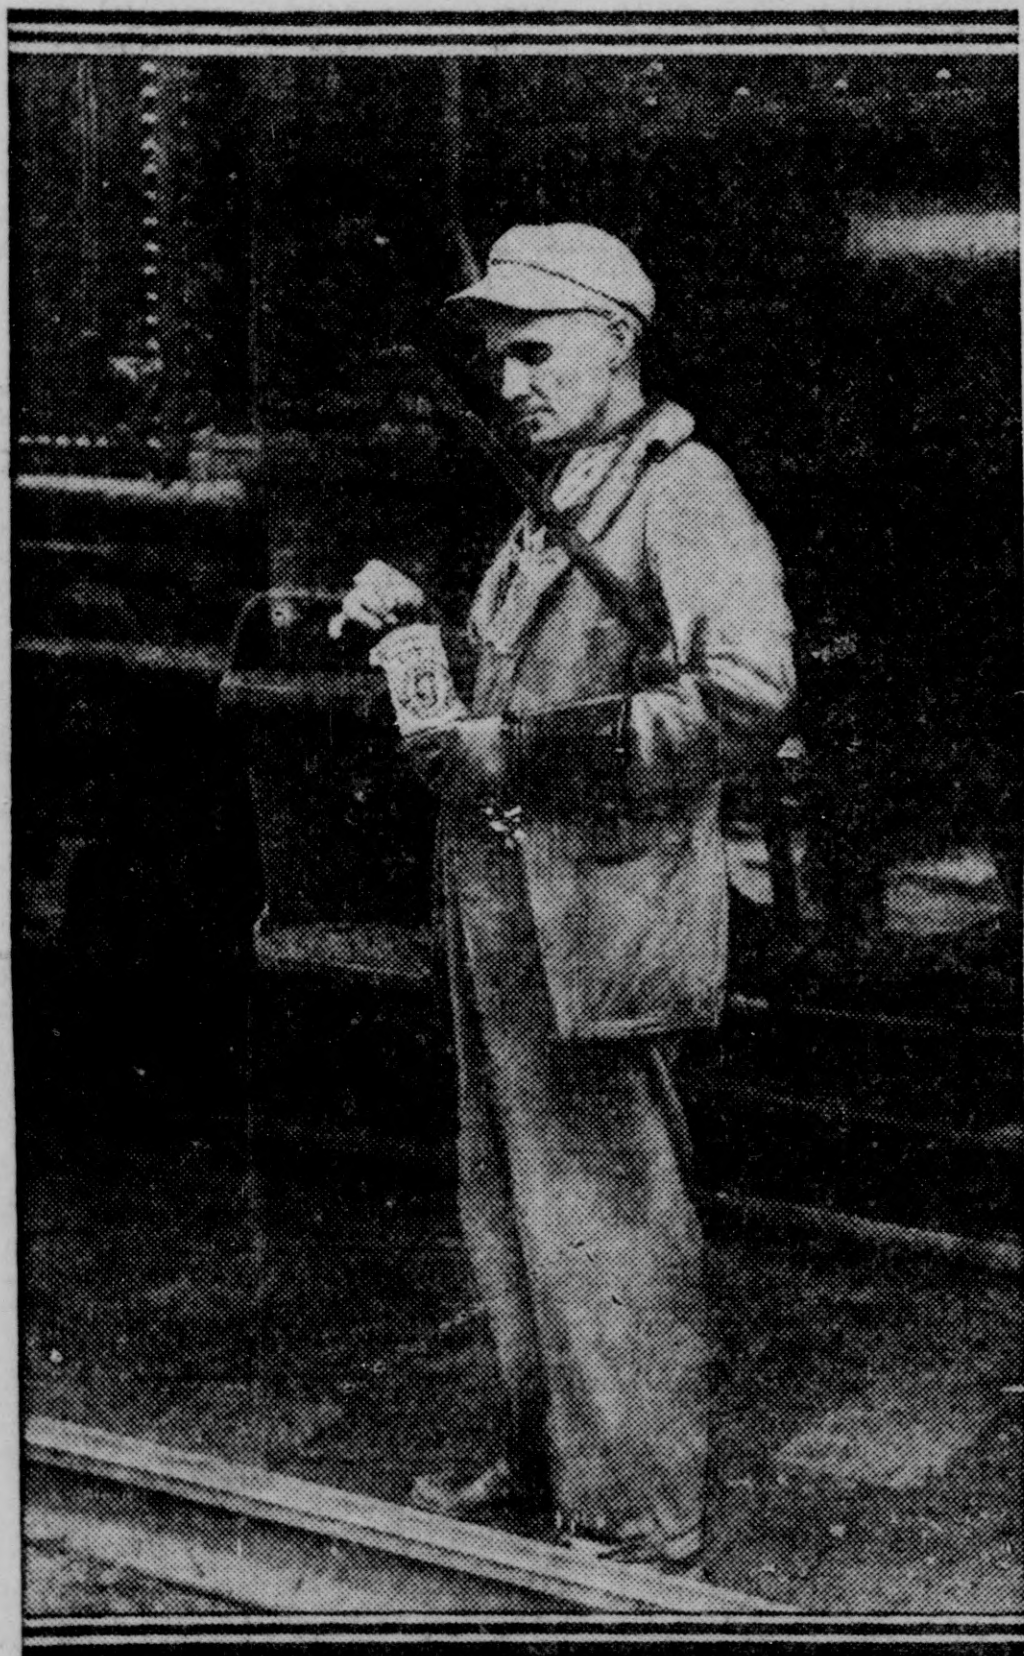

Simultaneously with the pulling of the power switch, Schuetrum heard a thud against the ceiling. He wheeled about to find the boy lying unconscious and bruised on the floor.

John died before he reached the hospital. It is believed the boy tripped and fell on the belt just as the power was turned on and that the whirling belt hurled him to the ceiling crushing him fatally.

Young CORBETT—UNCROWNED WELTER KING, WHO RECENTLY PASTED CHAMP JACKIE FIELDS IN A NON-TITLE SCRAP

The intelligent, belligerent-looking Italian-American youth sketched above is the reigning boxing sensation on the Pacific Coast, and has been all that for several months. Young Corbett III reached a climax a few weeks ago when he outpointed World's Welterweight Champion Jackie Fields in a 10-rounder at San Francisco. The title was not at stake, since it was one of those "over-weight" things, Fields' manager seeing to that.

Following the Frisco bout, reports spread in the East that Fields deserved no worse than a draw against the popular Fresno boy, the inference being that "home town" surroundings gave the Corbett kid the breaks. However, nine of eleven veteran fight reporters who saw the bout, and a ring-side canvass, indicated that Fields had been outpointed.

Since then Fields' manager has offered the Corbett camp a return bout—on "overweight" terms, of course. Up to the present, this has been rejected firmly and scornfully, and—the average sport bug comments on Fields' stand in this matter. However, the discreet welterweight king is not the only boxer who shies at good or even fair battles that move into action with the right arm, instead of the orthodox left, extended. Jimmy McLaren is as game and as dangerous as welters come, but his manager indignantly declined a liberal offer for a big Madison Square Garden shot with Corbett III after the latter had buffeted Fields about.

Yes, it is an ancient prejudice of the ring that a second-rate southpaw often can make an orthodox top-notch look bad and box worse. Strangely enough few such lefties ever won championships. Tiger Flowers and Al McCoy, both middles, are the only two the "Sport Bug" recalls offhand.

Most star "southies" are dimmed when they ultimately battle with the orthodox masters. But the latter do hate to take on the "Bugs Bears"—like boxing. They're "poison"—like Young Corbett III seems to be.

WINTER GOLF THRILLS

of the $25,000 Agua Caliente Open three strokes behind the leaders. Horton Smith and Al Espinosa, and picked up five strokes on them by going around in 68, for a course record, and winning the largest purse of the winter. He took $10,000, which is double the sum ever offered before for first place in a professional golf meet.

Just to prove the Los Angeles Open was no flash, Denny Shute repeated his accuracy, against the same tough field, as entered in the Los Angeles and Agua Caliente. Shute showed the most remarkable card of the winter to win the Texas Open. He turned a 69 and 71, which he added to his previous 68 and 69 for a total of 277. He again proved himself a good mud runner playing under the same weather conditions that prevailed in the Los Angeles tournament.

Coincidentally, Sarazen and Shute, both finished in a tie for third place in the last National Open.

The Four-Ball meet was next on the calendar, carded for Miami, and it proved to be a battle of upsets and the most interesting of winter matches in the sensational sense.

The Four-Ball saw that coming youngster, Shute, battling the veterans all the way. Paired with Toney Manero, he outplayed the favorites only to lose to McIntyre and Hampton. The former National Open champion, Cyril Walker, paired with Gamber, turned down the last on the final hole to win the title.

"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn was next to add his name to the struggle when he paced the field from the start of the rich La Gorce Open. Mehlhorn was medalist and, according to the jinks, he was supposed to be following the crowd in the next round. However, while the gallery was busy counting Horton Smith's strokes, the old war horse came through.

Mehlhorn, always a dangerous player, never showed more consistency, with his moneyed game, than when he started into the stretch with Smith working back of him. He picked up two strokes on the 17th with a daring brassie shot to within 10 feet of the cup to sink the putt for an eagle three and collect $5,000, the greatest barrage of golf shots in game has ever known, judging by this strenuous colorful winter season.

Morrison Leads In All-Events Bowling

G. Morrison, Chicago, has taken the lead from A. Gandrey, Saginaw, in the All-Events, A. B. C. with 1985 against 1967 pins. Other leaders: Five man, D. Gradd & Sons, Kalamazoo, 3100; two man, J. DeVine and G. Heup, Detroit, Mich., 1339 man and Individual, J. Shotwell, Covington, Ky., 774; Schwartz ballrooms of Hartford which for some time held the five man team lead has fallen to fourth place.

Mickie Solomon To Box Young Saylor

Mickie Solomon, local 154 pounder, will box Young Saylor, a veteran Charleroi, Pa., Friday night at Pittsburgh. Renewed efforts to match Mick' and Buck McTierman for Jolly bowl here, are not bearing much fruit. Solomon refuses to let McTierman weigh 160 and McTierman maintains he cannot make the weight.

So powerful is tradition, even in a swift age, that long after its present Mayor is forgotten, Chicago will probably be the Windy City still.—The Detroit News.

Again Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

... the war against spitting is a crusade of decency . . . join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

The strong arm of the law halts the spitter whose vile and vicious habit menaces his fellow citizens. But for every spitter caught hundreds escape... hundreds who still roll cigars with dirty fingers and spit on the ends! In fact, more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof . . . immaculate . . . foil-wrapped . . . Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said, "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

President Hoover Back At His Desk

Hoover Returns To Washington From His First Spring Week-End Fishing Trip

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Hoover was back at his desk today after his first week-end of the fishing season spent at his Rapidan camp in the Shenandoah National Park, Va.

The presidential party motored home in a pouring rain late yesterday without incident during the 100 mile trip. Several motorists were passed enroute stuck in ditches.

Yesterday morning the President visited the schoolhouse he helped establish for the "Hill Billy" children, and chatted for a time with Mrs. Christine Vest, the school teacher brought from Kentucky.

Although the president's catch of eleven mountain trout on Saturday was the record for the trip, other members of the party had good luck. No fishing was done yesterday.

Passengers Are Given Shaken-Up In Rail Wreck

(International News Service)
MOOREHEAD CITY, La., April 7.—Passengers on three Pullmans and one chair car of the Southern Pacific passenger train No. 103 Westbound, were shaken up today when the coaches left the tracks near here today.

None of the passengers were hurt. A Pullman porter incurred minor injuries. A spreading of the rails was believed to have caused the derailment.

The derailed Pullmans were bound for Los Angeles, San Diego and Houston, Texas.

RETURN FROM MOTHER'S FUNERAL

Fox Film Class A Stock Shows Strength In Market

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, April 7.—A rise of nearly 10 points in Fox Film class A stock, as the result of the taking over of control of the Fox Amusement enterprises by a head of General Theatres equipment, was the outstanding feature of the early trading in the stock market today.

The stock rose 7 points to 40½ last week as Wall Street buzzed with rumors which were unconfirmed until today's official announcement cleared up the whole matter. The rival banking concerns will now unite in a financing plan for the placing of Fox Film on a sound financial footing and removing the threat of receivership which has been hanging over the company.

On the first transaction today, Fox Film class A sold at $50 a share for a block of 20,000 shares up 9½ points from Saturday's close.

Loew Inc. control of which is held by Fox Film, jumped 3½ points to 84 and sold for exactly twice its February price. General Theatres equipment advanced a point to 49, but the balance of the amusement group declined a point or two under profit taking.

The market was as active in the first half-hour as in the same period in last week's heavy sessions, with the ticker 18 minutes behind, but profit taking in the second hour held up the advance and most of the leaders reacted from their early peaks.

Fox Film sold off 4 points at 46; General Electric was down 2½; Radio down 2; U. S. Steel down 1. United Aircraft made a brilliant 5 point jump to 93. Call money was unchanged at 4 per cent.

Senator Max Leslie Announces He Will Not Be Candidate For Re-Election

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, April 7.—State Senator Max G. Leslie, prominent political leader today announced he would not be a candidate for re-election. Leslie said he had forwarded a letter to recall to the secretary of the commonwealth asking withdrawal of his petition today.

The veteran political leader, who has directed political campaigns in this vicinity for almost 40 years, made his sixty-ninth birthday the occasion of his announcement.

"My decision was made at a family reunion at my home yesterday," Leslie said. My children were unanimous in their request that I retire and I am complying with their wishes.

Ambridge Enumerator Speaks Nine Languages

One of the census enumerators working in the district governed by Supervisor Orville Brown, is able to speak nine different languages and will be of material benefit in counting the population in the particular locality in which he is located, namely Ambridge borough.

He is Peter M. Platch, Mr. Platch is able to speak fluently, nine different languages, including English, German, Polish, Russian and a number of the languages which are allied to the Slavic and Polish branches.

Several of the local enumerators are able to speak two or three languages, but for the most part, there is not as much need for a linguist here as in other communities where many immigrants have recently settled.

There has been no great influx of people here from foreign countries during the past few years, because of industrial conditions. It has been found that school children in the home of foreign-born parents were able to interpret the questions and give the answers in a very satisfactory manner.

Contradicts Staggs

Among the dozens of students at the University of Chicago who are refuting the statement made by their coach, A. A. Staggs, at the prohibition hearings in Washington that drinking was not a problem on the campus, is Miss Marjorie Cahill, above, woman's editor of a student publication. She has been invited to testify before the judiciary committee.

Police found the two lying in front of a house on West Lafayette avenue yesterday occupied by Sacco. They said Sacco told them he fired his pistol in self-defense when the two attacked him and later, the authorities alleged, he denied he did the shooting. No pistol was found in the house.

A girl, representing herself as Miss Elizabeth Lite, said to be a former New York show girl, is held as a state's witness. She formerly lived at Sacco's house, Bachman claimed. The police said, Sacco accused him and Klinefelter with being too friendly with Miss Lite.

The trio, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, motored here from Lebanon to see a Miss Norma Bowen, who is caring for Miss Lite's child at the home. During the excitement, police said, Miss Bowen disappeared.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller said they waited in the automobile while the two men and Miss Lite went inside.

James Withdraws His Candidacy At Request Of Vare

Arthur H. James, Lieutenant Governor Will Not Run For Supreme Court Judge

LEAVES MAXEY AS ONLY CANDIDATE

By FRED K. McILVAINE
International News Service Staff Correspondent
HARRISBURG, April 7.—Some time today, formal papers announcing his withdrawal from candidacy for the Supreme court nomination were expected to be filed here by Lieutenant Arthur H. James of Plymouth.

"After several conferences with William S. Vare I have decided to withdraw from the race for the Republican nomination for justice of the Supreme court."

Those twenty-five words from the statement issued by James in Wilkes-Barre last night, and to which he refused to add.

James' withdrawal leaves Judge George W. Maxey, of Scranton, uncontested on the Francis Shunk Brown-James J. Davis, Philadelphia war board ticket and indicates that as prophesied neither Vare nor the war board would permit the disagreement over the Supreme court candidate to split the ranks.

Is Kept to Vare
The full significance, if there is more, of James' withdrawal may or may not be made known today when the lieutenant governor files the formal withdrawal paper with the board of elections here. He may say nothing more about it.
During the period of uncertainty,

James had contended himself with the simple announcement that if "Mr. Vare wishes me to withdraw I'll withdraw, and if he wishes me to run, I will run."

Phillips to Stick
There had been rumors in some quarters that former Congressman Phillips, of Butler, would withdraw from his stand for the gubernatorial seat. Phillips, a wet, spiked such hopes Saturday when Brown's statement in favor of a referendum on the state prohibition enforcement act failed to meet the issue as Phillips thought it should.

Running with Phillips on an out-and-out wet platform are Francis H. Golden, of Germantown, for the United States Senate, and Charles Dorrance of Scranton, for the lieutenant governorship.

The wets forced Brown's hand in getting his announcement and then issued a broadside against its "straddling." Clifford Pritchot, independent gubernatorial candidate, as dry as Phillips is wet, also interpreted Brown's statement, not as how Brown stands, but as how "Brown and Charles Hall thought they could get the most votes."

CAMERA MEN TO SHOOT ECLIPSE

Will Snap It From Air And Ground On April 28

SAN FRANCISCO, April 7.—In a brief span of time astronomers of the Lick Observatory plan to take six photographs of an eclipse of the sun near here April 28.

One photographic endeavor will be from the cockpit of an army airplane from Crissey Field, the first attempt of its kind in history, and the other five will be taken from observation stations.

Special cameras, specially prepared plates and other details so numerous as to bewilder one have been made ready for the great experiment.
At about 11 a. m. April 28 for a moment the sun will be obscured and darkness will form a path a half-mile wide across the north-central part of California.

In a plane 10,000 feet above the Napa Valley, Dr. H. M. Jeffers, a training pilot and astronomer, will man a specially equipped camera in an effort to photograph the eclipse.

While Dr. Jeffers is working above the earth's haze, Dr. J. M. Moore and Dr. D. H. Menzel will be "shooting" the sun with spectroscopic cameras from the ground and Dr. F. J. Hebbauer, Dr. W. F. Meyer and Dr. G. B. Blair, professor of physics at the University of Nevada, will man the telescopic cameras.

Dr. C. F. Paddock will make the observations at Lick Observatory. San Francisco will experience an almost total eclipse, the narrow line of total darkness passing about six miles north of Mount Tamalpais in Marin County, north of the Golden Gate.

Couple Arrested On Charge Of Causing Death Of Young Girl

(International News Service)
NORWICH, N. Y., April 7.— Ralph H. Mumbulo, 34, and his wife, Edna, 36, were being held today in the Chenango county jail in this city charged with murder in connection with the death of Mumbulo's 11-year-old girl at Erie, Pa., on March 22.

The couple were arrested Saturday night at the home of Howard Sweet, a farmer, living near Edmeston, a small village in Otsego county, on a warrant charging them with being fugitives from justice.

Mumbulo and his present wife were married at Montrose, Pa., on April 3, by a justice of the peace. Mumbulo's first wife, who died seven years ago, left property valued at $8,000 to their daughter.

The child was burned to death in an Erie, Pa., apartment, and police claim that her bed had been soaked with gasoline.

Pennsylvania authorities were expected to go to Albany today to ask Governor Roosevelt to sign extradition papers which will return the couple to Erie to answer a charge of murder.

"You have made a mistake," Sheriff Ormsby quoted Mumbulo as saying when he was taken into custody. The authorities said that later, however, Mumbulo admitted his identity but denied he was responsible for the death of his daughter.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Spring brings a lot of things besides flowers and rain, and cut prices on red flannels. The usual spring crop of goofy drivers is coming out with the early rains, although some of them go back in, or least go in, to the hospital. It seems that sunshine and balmy air and dry concrete, combine to form a virus that infects the motorists blood, that is some are seen on broad highways when a car of the vintage of 1921 endeavors to pass a straight eight.

One of the boys came to a rather abrupt ending on the Butler road Sunday afternoon. There is a pole standing at the corner of a lane out there, or rather there was a pole. This twin deuce, the model which it was thought would be off the road by now, came roaring around the curve with all signals green. Perhaps a wheel went off the concrete, or perhaps the car got ideas. Any way it plunged head on into this defenseless pole and the pole came out second best.

The crash pushed the base of the pole through the dirt for a couple of feet, broke it off about four feet from the ground, splintered it up and down for fifteen feet, broke off a cross arm, and left it standing drunkenly in the wind.

There wasn't much damage to the car. The bumper had a dent in it but the radiator escaped injury. The driver's head smacked into the windshield, with a small bruise appearing. It takes a lot to injure heads like that.

Stan Treser, who is working for the city, (well he's a councilman if you must know) is learning just how annoying a telephone can be. Several evenings ago he went to bed at a respectable hour but thought he might get a phone call during the night concerning a sick relative.

About one o'clock the telephone rang. Out of bed hopped our young hero and without stopping for a dressing gown went down the stairs two at a time. Sliding into the telephone stand he took off the receiver and yelled, "hello." From the other end of the wire a voice, apparently sober, said, "Mr. Treser I've just been thinking, if the government builds a new post office here, the present post-office would make an admirable site for a public library."

What our young hero said is nobody's business, but the telephone girl threatened to have the phone removed if it ever happened again.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

Where White's Tube Mill was located?

Where the New Castle and Franklin railroad had its round house, where they built their box cars and who was boss carpenter?
Where Woodworth's saw mill stood?
Where and when was Doud's machine shop located on Washington street?

Where was the Slabtown Saw Mill from which the South Side got the name "Slabtown"?
Where was Du Shane's brickyard?
Where was the opera house that burned down?

Where was Patterson's Tannery?
Where was the Neshannock Ball Grounds?

My old friend C. G. Crill has asked the questions above. This column doesn't know all the answers, but certainly among the vast host of readers of this column (there's a dandy) the answers should appear.

GIRL SCOUTS

WILL HAVE PARTY
The Minnehaha Troop of Girl Scouts met on Saturday morning in the City building with almost perfect attendance. Ruth Chilton was taken into the troop. The troop is now full. Miss Love was a special visitor. Ruth Connor trained the tenderfoot girls. Board Chairman had a signalling class and the Captain helped the other girls find their place and some of their personal measurements.
An Easter party will be held on April 19 in their regular meeting place.

A good many little children swallow foreign objects. Among them are pins. Be ever so careful and the child will still find some dangerous things. The first time you see him pick up such an object don't yell at him. Be calm. Quietly ask him to give it to you and approve him warmly with a smiling "Thank you" as he does. He likes to push small things through cracks and holes. Cut a slit in a tin coffee can and persuade him to put small foreign objects into it. He may go searching for long periods of time to find things, just for the pleasure of putting them into this can or of giving them to you to earn your smile. In like manner you can teach him to bring all things not his own to you which he finds out of place.
If the child is found with some foreign object in his mouth, don't get excited. Very gently remove it, avoiding, if possible, any resistance. Never even wrench a forbidden thing from the child's grasp. Persuade him to hand it to you or, if necessary, give him something else attractive and slowly spirit away the dangerous thing as he relaxes his grasp, with his attention on the substitute. Never even suggest punishment in such instances.
If, for example, the toddler has a sharp stick or the pointed scissors, and you force them from him once, next time he sees you coming to seize them he will almost surely run away with them. Then what a tragedy if he should fall upon the piercing, cutting thing! Teach him early to carry all sharp-pointed things pointed downward, and until he is ready to be fairly safe with them keep them from his reach.
If he has climbed to a dangerous place, be on your guard. If you shout at him or hasten to seize him, he may fall. Find safe places for him to climb very early.
Let him learn early never to climb for certain defined places, as to the medicine chest, nor to reach for things above him, as those on the kitchen sink or table. Teach him to avoid the gas jet and the open fire. The first time he touches the gas jet or reaches for objects above him in the kitchen, give him immediate pain—preferably a spank—saying "no" just once. Be on hand always when he is exposed to those things so he never can repeat without feeling pain. There must be no exceptions if you wish to get quick and permanent results and, if possible, the child must get pain following the first forbidden act. Unless the pain can be immediate, let there be none at all. Delayed punishment of little children becomes mere torture, and makes future punishment ineffectual.

Escaped Reformatory Youth Apprehended

(International News Service)
LEIGHTON, Pa., April 7.—Minus both shoes and stockings, Leonard Dexter, 15-year-old escaped inmate of the Rochester, N. Y., reformatory, was captured here today by Lawrence Cosgrave, a Lehigh Valley railroad detective.

The barefoot youth was discovered beating his way on a fast freight train and was lodged in the local jail pending the arrival of officers from the Rochester institution.

Dexter escaped from the reformatory on April 5. He was serving an 18 months sentence for larceny.

Former Legislator Dies In Derry, Pa.

(International News Service)
DERRY, Pa., April 7.—George A. Smith, 75, former representative at the state legislature, was dead at his home today after a three-month illness.

He was a Republican committeeman from Westmoreland county. He had lived in Derry for more than 40 years and had been in the clothing business here.

TWICE BEST MAN
LOGAN, O., April 7.—In a battle to arrest Joseph Waltz, Sheriff L. F. Hammond came off best man. In court, after paying $155 a fine, Waltz went up to Hammond and said: "You've proved you're the better man."

Will you be my best man? Hammond agreed and appeared for the second time as best man when Waltz and Babe Conrad were married.

Engineering Works To Play Mushball

The Pennsylvania Engineering Works mushball team joined the Industrial League today. There are now sixteen teams in the league and there is a possibility that the franchise will be closed at the session to be held tonight at The News Office at seven o'clock.

With sixteen teams it will be possible to play four games a night and each team play twice a week.

CAUSE FOR REJOICING!

EXCUSE our enthusiasm, but we are good cause for rejoicing as the Music Defense League nears the 2,000,000 membership mark after a few short weeks of effort.

And, if that doesn't prove that the American public wants Living Orchestras and Organists in the Theatre, what would?

There is nothing EXclusive about this swiftly-growing society. It's INclusive—inclusive of the intelligent citizenry of the New World. And that covers a lot of people, cynics to the contrary notwithstanding. It should, by the way, include YOU.

To become a member in good standing of the Music Defense League one needs only the discriminating taste to know that the art of music is worthy of preservation, and the good sense to want one's money's worth. There are no dues, no obligations.

Throughout the world friends of music are alive to the cultural menace of Canned Music in Theatres. Even the governments of England, France, Spain and Italy are considering measures to prevent this artistic debasement.

American music lovers have chosen the popular and democratic course—
